Canadian Editor, Boxer, Violinist Listed As Victims

PARIS (CP)—An Air France trans-Atlantic plane crashed in flames on Sao Miguel Island in the Azores, killing all 48 persons aboard.

The airliner, en route from Paris to New York, had been missing for eight hours when search craft sighted the wreckage on a mountain peak on the Azores island. Aboard the plane were a Montreal newspaper man, his mother, and French boxer Marcel Cerdan.

Air France said it received a cable confirming the disaster at 5.10 p.m. (11.10 a.m. C.S.T.).

Rescue parties reached the remote island of Sao Miguel where the plane rammed into a mountain side and found all dead, the company said.

Guy Jasmin, editor-in-chief of the Montreal French-language newspaper Le Canada, was aboard with his mother, Mrs. Rachel Jasmin.

First reports from the Azores said some survivors had been sighted, but this was not borne out in an announcement of Air France here.

The Constellation, on a flight from Paris to New York, also carried the noted French woman violin virtuoso, Ginette Neveu, and Louis Boutet de Monvel, widely-known French painter and illustrator of children's books.

Jasmin had been traveling in Italy and France to gather material for a series of stories in connection with the 1950 Holy Year.

Cerdan, former world middle-weight champion, was on his way here for a title bout scheduled Dec. 2 at Madison Square Garden, New York, with Jake La Motta, to whom he lost the title in Detroit June 18.

The rocky island is about 90 miles from the Azores airport at Santa Maria, which is some 1,200 miles west of the Spanish coast.

Company officials said they had no idea what had happened to prevent the plane from landing at Santa Maria. However, the weather was bad at the time, they said.

Fair Records

TORONTO (CP)—A record entry of swine and near-record figures of other classes is expected when the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto's big agricultural event, opens Nov. 15. Seed and grain classes, which is still open for entry, are expected to set new fair records, with world championships in wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn and potatoes to be decided.

Ready To Fight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Harry Bridges, leader of 65,000 longshoremen, said today the only way his union would leave the C.I.O. "would be if we're booted out." The west coast leader—who takes pride in calling his union a left-wing organization—admitted he thought next week's annual convention would be "rough."

Alberta Sells Gas Rights For Another $2,866,968

EDMONTON (CP)—The provincial treasury today had another $2,866,968 paid by Tanner and Co. Ltd. of Calgary for a single quarter section, Parcel 64, in the northwest section of the Redwater field. The land is close to Imperial Egremont No. 4, a big producing well.

The price was the highest ever paid for a quarter section of land in Alberta, eclipsing the $902,500 paid by the British-American Oil Co. Ltd. at the previous oil rights sale Aug. 25.

A syndicate composed of E. H. and C. R. Tanner of Calgary and their associates made the record bid. Only Canadian capital is behind the project. The Tanner brothers, who operate a nationally-known investment business in Calgary, said the land will be drilled and managed by a major oil company with full ownership remaining with the syndicate.

The Calgary firm also paid $677,267.17 for Parcel 65, a quarter section in the north-west corner of the Redwater field and near producing wells.

In the Redwater field, Parcel 63 was sold to the Ohio Oil Co. for $420,031; Parcel 66 to Canadian Gulf Oil Co. for $350,000; and Parcel 69 to Pacific Petroleum Ltd. for $325,000 and rejection of bids for Parcels 62, 67 and 68.

At Scene Of Alaska 'Gold Rush'

Fishwheel Nuggets Salted, One Brass, Says Professor

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UP)—Scientific tests showed today that an original nugget from the Fishwheel gold strike was common brass and others, while gold, apparently were planted to "salt" the find.

Tests performed by Prof. Richard Ragle, University of Alaska geologist, supported embittered prospectors who returned from Fishwheel empty-handed, charging a "hoax."

But the hardy gold-seekers remaining at the claim site were almost to a man enthusiastic and hopeful. Some said they intended to brave the rigors of winter and possibly bring in heavy equipment to work the claims.

A test tube of the original nuggets unearthed two weeks ago at Fishwheel, Alaska, was brought to the university here for microscopic and chemical examination. Ragle said the nitric acid test, standard for all gold, proved one of the nuggets to be brass.

Acid tests and microscopic scrutiny of the other original nuggets revealed them to be "pocket-worm" or carried in a "poke" for several months, he said.

Ragle added that one small and one large nugget appeared to be worn, as though carried in someone's pocket or in a bag. He said a microscopic examination showed two smaller nuggets were from entirely different sources and were two delicate to have been pushed along the Yukon River's bed by the water for any appreciable distance.

In Washington, meanwhile, the Bureau of Land Management said its Fairbanks district manager, Fred J. Weller, reported the value of all gold actually taken from the Fishwheel strike "probably wouldn't exceed $50."

Amtorg Signs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amtorg, indicted last week for failure to register as an agent of the Russian government, has signed up with the justice department. At present, five of Amtorg's officers are free under $15,000 bail each pending a hearing next Wednesday in New York to determine whether they are to be brought here for trial.

Auto Industry Faces Shutdown

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—Labor department spokesmen said today the "Big Three" automobile producers of Canada would have to shut down operations "within a matter of days" as a result of steel shortages.

The shadow of the month-old United States steel strike hovered over the huge Canadian automobile industry, which employs upwards of 50,000 workers directly, and almost another 50,000 indirectly, it was stated.

Department sources said they had been advised that, in the absence of a speedy settlement of the U.S. steel strike and an immediate resumption of steel imports, a shutdown of Ford, Chrysler and General Motors plants was imminent.

Labor Department sources, in fact, said they were not even certain that an immediate and to the U.S. strike would avert at least a temporary close-down of the Canadian automobile factories, located principally at Windsor and Oshawa, Ont.

The Oshawa plant of General Motors was strike-bound, but the understanding in government circles here was that it would be affected similarly if agreement should come in the local labor dispute.

The automotive industry, it was stated, had eaten into its steel stockpiles to such an extent that only the fastest sort of replenishment would prevent exhaustion of supplies.

Since many United States steel users were in an even worse inventory position than the Canadian firms when the steel strike started, government sources expected their needs would be looked after first when the U.S. strike finally did come to an end. Canadian users would have to wait their turn for supplies after the strike.

Government sources here, following strike developments in the United States closely, reported that the outlook for an early settlement was far from rosy. The prospects of the strike dragging through another month were by no means unlikely, they said.

By that time, they added, the effects upon Canadian industry generally would be "undoubtedly general and very serious."

Abbott Says Canada Must Seek Business Outside Britain, U.S.

TORONTO (BUP)—Finance Minister Douglas C. Abbott said today Canada would have to look elsewhere than Britain and the United States to solve its trade problems.

He said it was up to Canadians to iron out their own troubles and that in any event, government action was limited.

Mr. Abbott spoke here at a meeting of the Canadian Importers' and Traders' Association. He said that although the main trouble spots in this country's international trade picture were Britain and the U.S., bringing Canada's trade with those countries into balance would not be enough to assure continuing prosperity.

"I don't believe that neat bilateral balances with individual countries are either realistic or desirable," he said.

"Regardless of how successful we may be in narrowing our wide bilateral trade gaps," he said, "the Canadian economy will inevitably remain dependent not only on a high level of trade but also on a multilateral system of trade and settlement."

Abbott said this basic position was unavoidably a consequence of Canada's industrial structure, geographical position and natural resources.

Discuss U.S. Navy's Future

Big Shake-Up In U.S. Navy Hinted As Admiral Beached

WASHINGTON (UP)—Pentagon sources predicted today the ouster of Admiral Louis E. Denfield as Chief of Naval Operations foreshadows a thorough shake-up of the U.S. Navy High Command.

But further shifts of admirals were expected to await appointment of a new Chief of Naval Operations. Some, however, may resign or retire to show their sympathy for Denfield and the anti-unification stand which cost him his job.

Denfield himself withheld a decision on whether he would get out of the navy altogether or accept the "important" new duties to be offered by Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews. An aide said Denfield's decision would depend on how important the new post is.

Navy sources said they expect Denfield's successor to make a clean sweep and name new admirals for the vice-chief and the five deputy chiefs of naval operations.

Informed sources said Vice-Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, commander of the Sixth Task Fleet in the Mediterranean, is the No. 1 prospect to succeed Denfield.

Secretary Matthews would not discuss the subject of a new Chief of Naval Operations. Neither would he confirm nor deny reports that Sherman had been ordered to come here.

Parley On Changes In Constitution Set For January

OTTAWA (CP)—The Dominion-Provincial conference on constitutional amendments will be held early in January, it was indicated today.

Federal government sources said they expected the conference will be over by the time the next session of Parliament begins, late in January or early in February.

The suggestion of Prime Minister St. Laurent that a preliminary exploratory conference of constitutional experts be called, apparently has been abandoned because no general agreement between the Dominion and the provinces could be reached.

Six Lose Lives In Plane Crash At London Airport

LONDON (CP)—Six persons, including Sir Hugh Weightman, retired British government official, were killed today when a twin-engine amphibian plane on its way to Rome crashed and burned as it was taking off from London airport.

First reports of the crash erroneously referred to the plane as being owned by Imperial Oil of Canada.

Sir Hugh, 50, of the Central Mining Investment Corporation, retired from the Indian political service in 1947. He had been secretary to the Indian government external affairs department and served in Assam, Baluchistan, the Persian Gulf and Delhi.

Another Briton, W. J. Horne, and four Americans were among the dead. Sir Hugh and Horne were on their way to the Middle East on a joint mission for the Central Mining Investment Company.

There was one survivor, an American member of the crew. Two of the four dead Americans were officials of the Superior Oil Company of Los Angeles, Calif.

Cut Off Own Hand

Victoria Daily Times Changes Hands

No Change In Times Policies

Sale of the Victoria Daily Times to Max Bell of Calgary and his associates was announced today by Mrs. J. W. Spencer, member of the family which has controlled the city's evening publication since 1920.

Amount of the sum involved was not disclosed. Mr. Bell is president of a holding company which will control the Victoria Times, the Calgary Albertan and the Edmonton Bulletin.

Final arrangements for the sale of the Times were completed this morning. F. E. Winslow, Victoria, and E. B. Bull, Vancouver, represented Mrs. Spencer, widow of J. W. Spencer, long-time managing director of the newspaper. Commenting on the purchase, Mr. Bell, 37-year-old Regina-born businessman, said: "We shall continue the traditional policies of the Times, at all times striving to obtain and publish all the news that's fit to print."

"We are not unmindful of the morning contemporary, its history and enviable record, and with it and the Times we feel Victoria will be given the type of 24-hour newspaper service to which it is justly entitled."

Thousands Helped By Hospital Insurance

Since it was inaugurated 145,500 persons have received benefits from the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service and 450,000 have directly and indirectly felt the benefits from the service, Premier Byron Johnson told the Laurier Club Thursday night.

"If there is anything I am proud of it is the fact, that the government had the courage to go ahead with hospital insurance at this time," the Premier said. See "Hospital Insurance Revenue" page 28.

Verdict Of Suicide

LONDON (UP)—A coroner returned a verdict of suicide today in the death of Honorable Peter Beatty, 39, son of the late Admiral Earl Beatty, who defeated the Germans at Jutland in World War I. Beatty leaped six floors to his death from a window of the fashionable Ritz Hotel on Wednesday, shortly after his doctors had told him there was no hope of saving his sight.

Coffee Panic In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Predictions of coffee prices ballooning up to $1 a pound sent housewives crowding into grocery stores here today to stock up on the brew at its present 60 cents a pound average. Coffee prices advanced five cents a pound today, but most retailers are selling out present stocks before jumping the price.

Explosion Of Blasting Cap Injures 2 Boys

A dynamite blasting cap explosion Thursday night in Saanich sent two boys to Jubilee Hospital. Constable David Shepherd of the Saanich police reported today. The officer reported that 18-year-old Victor Waring, Prospect Lake Post Office, lost the half of his left hand thumb and the first three adjoining fingers had to be amputated at the first joint. Charles Hughes, 16, of the lake area, suffered slight wounds to the left thigh. Const. Shepherd said the explosion occurred while the two boys were playing at the Waring house at about 9.15. They told him that the cap exploded when it fell from a shelf. The boys were taken to hospital by Const. Shepherd.

Chest Campaign To Be Prolonged

Greater Victoria's Community Chest campaign will not end Saturday as was intended.

The campaign, already extended one week, will go on into November in the hope that further contributions will be forthcoming to push total collections closer to the $140,000 objective mark.

Chest officials pointed out today present contributions amount to only $106,000, about 76 per cent of the objective. The drive has been under way since Oct. 3.

Canvassing will continue and the chest campaign office, Prince Robert House, will remain open all next week and maybe longer. Those in charge of the drive are determined to collect as much as possible for the 20 independent agencies which rely on the chest for continued operation.

New Nanaimo School Opened By Straith

Education Minister W. T. Straith snipped a ribbon Thursday afternoon and formally declared open the new Princess Royal school at Nanaimo.

The school is a four-room structure and cost $70,000. It was named after the ship which brought some of the early settlers to Nanaimo and some of the children of the immigrants were present for the opening ceremonies.

Mr. Straith described the school as an example of the department's policy of providing the most modern facilities at the most reasonable price.

2 Canadians, Famed Boxer Among Dead

PARIS (CP)—An Air France trans-Atlantic plane crashed in flames on Sao Miguel Islands in the Azores, killing all 48 persons aboard.

The airliner, en route from Paris to New York, had been missing for eight hours when search craft sighted the wreckage on a mountain peak on the Azores isle. Aboard the plane were a Montreal newspaper man, his mother, and French boxer Marcel Cerdan.

Dispatches from Ponta Delgada in the Azores said all the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Auto Makers Deny Shutdown Soon From Steel Shortage

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Two leading Canadian automobile manufacturers confirmed today their previous statements that there is no immediate effect on their Canadian motor car production of the continuing United States steel strike.

A spokesman for the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd., employer of 11,000 United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) here, said his company's earlier statement that effects of the strike would be felt here by Oct. 31 and that possible curtailment in production might be necessary about mid-November, still stands.

The Chrysler Corporation of Canada Ltd. also reports no immediate change on their production scene.

An earlier dispatch by the British United Press from Ottawa today said Labor Department spokesmen said the "Big Three" automobile producers of Canada would have to shut down operations "within a matter of days" as a result of steel shortages.

The dispatch quoted departmental sources as saying they had been advised that, in the absence of a speedy settlement of the U.S. steel strike and an immediate resumption of steel imports, a shutdown of Ford, Chrysler and General Motors plants was imminent.

Labor Department sources, in fact, said they were not even certain that an immediate end to the U.S. strike would avert at least a temporary close-down of the Canadian automobile factories, located principally at Windsor and Oshawa, Ont.

Operate On Man To Cure Tendency To Write Bad Cheques

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Doctors hope that from now on Charles Hinkley, 25, won't want to write any more bad cheques.

The handsome youth underwent a tedious, two-hour brain operation Thursday night in an effort to rid himself of criminal tendencies. During the past three years he has been caught cashing so many worthless cheques that he could be sent to prison for life under Florida's habitual criminal law.

The operation, in which a doctor bored through the skull and separated the front brain segments, is the same surgery pioneered by Prof. Antonio Egas Moniz of Lisbon, Portugal, for which he was awarded this week a half share of the 1949 Nobel Prize for Physiology and Medicine.

Hinkley said he seemed to be always under a compulsion to break the law, and asked criminal court Judge Ben C. Willard to allow him to undergo the surgery.

"I'm better off dead than going on this way," he told the judge. The judge granted permission for the operation and wished Hinkley luck.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

STRANGE SOCIETY

TALKING to an Englishman, passing through Victoria after an extended trip through the United States a few months ago, I asked him what impressed him most about our neighbors to the south. And he replied: "Two things—their hospitality and their readiness to organize at the drop of a hat."

His words came back to me on reading an item in a Washington, D.C., newspaper of recent date which recorded the holding of a convention there earlier this month. It was the National Contesters' Association.

Never having heard of its existence before, I was amazed to read that no less than 300 delegates from 30 different states came to the three-day parley. Furthermore, it was the 10th annual convention, held in the same hotel where only 17 contestants had gathered to found the organization just over a decade ago.

CONTEST CONSCIOUS

AS ANY other observer of the contemporary scene knows, the number of followers of the contest cult is assuming amazing proportions, but I had never before realized that it had reached the organization stage.

Evidently life is a matter of surprises—and prizes—to the folk who belong to the contesters' association, for the newly-elected president, an Omaha, Neb., housewife, Mrs. Jack Bruer, claims to have won a contest a month for the past three years, the prizes ranging all the way from a pony to a car.

According to other delegates who were there, an automobile is the "glamour prize" of the "profession." You hardly are considered much of a competitor unless you have won a car.

MOSTLY HOUSEWIVES

I WAS amused to read that 80 per cent of the delegates at the Washington convention were housewives. One member explained that simply by saying: "Some people go in for bridge as a hobby; we just like entering contests better."

So in between household stints they concentrate on writing slogans, last-lines, essays about the virtues of this, that or the other product, and sending them in to the usual accompaniment of box-lid or coupon or whatnot.

But the association has other objectives besides the mere winning of prizes, whether in cash or kind. They want to up-lift professional contesting to a higher plane, it seems. To that end, the national group is working for better contesting in terms of fair judging standards and distribution of contest information.

ADVICE FOR AMATEURS

THE PRESIDENT was ready, too, with advice for mere amateurs at the game. Sincerity pays off when writing about things like soap, but cleverness is the keynote to last lines, slogans and essays—take it from her.

After pointing out the necessity of following rules to the letter, she goes on to warn that it's persistence that pays. She said, too, that the more contests you enter, the more chances of winning. Which, after all, is elemental, my dear Watson!

And it tickled me to learn that there is a certain amount of cut-throat competition even among contest addicts. For, as to the other great class of contestants, the radio-quiz crowd, Mrs. Bruer said her association looked down their noses at them.

HERE EXHIBITIONISTS

ACCORDING to her, the followers of the radio quiz and other get-rich-quick shows are "mainly exhibitionists"—which, I suppose, means that they are the lowest form of contestant life!

After all of which I fully expect to see the "radio exhibitionists" organize themselves on a world-wide basis, not only in self defence, but as a means of ensuring bigger and better give-away programs and of raising the tone of the whole get-something-for-nothing profession.

Princess Elizabeth To Fly To Malta

LONDON (Reuter)—Princess Elizabeth hopes to fly to Malta Nov. 20 to join her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, now serving in the navy there, for a few weeks. It was announced tonight.

Prince Charles, their son, will be left in Britain.

An announcement from Clarence House, London residence of the princess, said that she "hopes to stay privately for a few weeks" and expects to return to Britain before Christmas.

The princess will be accompanied by her lady-in-waiting, Lady Alice Egerton, and will stay with Earl and Countess Mountbatten, uncle and aunt of the duke.

Nov. 20 is the second anniversary of her wedding.

The Duke of Edinburgh flew to Malta Oct. 15 to take up an appointment as first lieutenant of the destroyer Chequers, attached to the British Mediterranean Fleet.

Earl Mountbatten is in command of the 1st Cruiser Squadron in the Mediterranean.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A larger atom bomb is possible, in the opinion of Prof. Richard P. Feynman of Cornell University's physics department. "Neither the United States nor Russia is making atom bombs as large as they could be," Feynman told a Syracuse University class.

Montreal Priest Sentenced To Jail On Narcotic Charge

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Joseph Arthur Taillefer, Roman Catholic priest who pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to possess and distribute and to selling narcotics, was sentenced today to two years in the penitentiary and fined $3,000, with the option of an additional year sentence.

Father Taillefer, a vicar at St. Madeleine d'Outremont Church in Greater Montreal, pleaded guilty three weeks ago. Sentence was pronounced today by Chief Judge Edouard Archambault.

There were five charges in all—two of conspiring to sell and distribute and three of selling.

The sentence was two years on each charge, a total sentence of 10 years, but all are to run concurrently.

The $3,000 fine, with the option of another year, was in addition. At his arraignment late in September shortly after his arrest Father Taillefer pleaded innocent. The plea was changed at preliminary hearing Oct. 5.

Co-accused with him were Michel Sisco, an east-end night club operator; Jean Claude Lapres and Rosaire Delisle.

Found Big Cache Of Heroin

The narcotics case was broken when R.C.M.P. announced discovery of $90,000 worth of heroin in a public baggage locker in Central Station in mid-town Montreal.

Arrest of the 40-year-old priest and the others came as a sensation. At the preliminary hearing the principal Crown witness was the league's Alberta division. Mr. Ross said the survey had attracted interest among medical men in Canada and the United States.

H. P. Papillon, a fire-extinguisher salesman from Loretteville, Que., who said he co-operated with the R.C.M.P. when asked.

He told of working his way into the confidence of a group of alleged drug peddlers and of first meeting Father Taillefer in a room at the presbytery of St. Madeleine d'Outremont Church in March, 1948.

More than 3,000 air cadets were given medical examinations this year at summer camp. About 1,000 were also given heart examinations, revealing information that was little known of the 14 to 18 years age group.

Abbott Says Canada Must Seek Business Outside Britain, U.S.

TORONTO (BUP)—Finance Minister Douglas C. Abbott said today Canada would have to look elsewhere than Britain and the United States to solve its trade problems.

He said it was up to Canadians to iron out their own troubles and that in any event, government action was limited.

Mr. Abbott spoke here at a meeting of the Canadian Importers' and Traders' Association. He said that although the main trouble spots in this country's international trade picture were Britain and the U.S., bringing Canada's trade with those countries into balance would not be enough to assure continuing prosperity.

"I don't believe that neat bilateral balances with individual countries are either realistic or desirable," he said.

"Regardless of how successful we may be in narrowing our wide bilateral trade gaps," he said, "the Canadian economy will inevitably remain dependent not only on a high level of trade but also on a multilateral system of trade and settlement."

Abbott said this basic position was unavoidably a consequence of Canada's industrial structure, geographical position and natural resources.

Allowed To Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners Thursday granted the Canadian Pacific Railway permission to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada from the board's 8 per cent freight rate increase decision of Sept. 30. Higher rates are sought.

Alberta Sells Gas Rights For Another $2,866,968

EDMONTON (CP)—The provincial treasury today had another $2,866,968 and statisticians had a record for their books as a result of Thursday's sale by the Alberta government of petroleum and natural gas rights on eight quarter sections of land in the Redwater and Leduc oil fields.

Big feature of the sale was the $918,662.67 paid by Tanner and Co. Ltd. of Calgary for a single quarter section, Parcel 64, in the northwest section of the Redwater field. The land is close to Imperial Egremont No. 1, a big producing well.

The price was the highest ever paid for a quarter section of land in Alberta, eclipsing the $902,800 paid by the British-American Oil Co. Ltd. at the previous oil rights sale Aug. 25.

A syndicate composed of E. H. and C. R. Tanner of Calgary and their associates made the record bid. Only Canadian capital is behind the project. The Tanner brothers, who operate a nationally-known investment business in Calgary, said the land will be drilled and managed by a major oil company with full ownership remaining with the syndicate.

The Calgary firm also paid $677,267.17 for Parcel 65, a quarter section in the northwest corner of the Redwater field and near producing wells. In the Redwater field, Parcel 63 was sold to the Ohio Oil Co. for $420,031; Parcel 66 to Canadian Gulf Oil Co. for $350,000; and Parcel 69 to Pacific Petroleum Ltd. for $325,000 and rejection of bids for Parcels 62, 67 and 68.

U.S. Lifts Entry Bar On Prof. Shortliffe

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. Glen Shortliffe, 36, professor of French at Queen's University here, said today he was pleased to hear of the U.S. Justice Department's announcement of the lifting of a temporary order which barred him from entering the United States.

The announcement was made Thursday in Washington. But Prof. Shortliffe said he now had no intention of residing in the republic.

Last June the immigration and naturalization service blocked Dr. Shortliffe's entry into the United States. He had arranged to take a post at Washington University at St. Louis on one year's leave of absence from Queen's.

The U.S. Justice Department said then it had information that his entry would be prejudicial to the interests of the country. The department said yesterday however, this information was found to be wrong and the exclusion order therefore was revoked.

Royal City Votes B.C.E.R. Franchise

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—An overwhelming vote in favor of a proposed 20-year British Columbia Electric Railway franchise was recorded by New Westminster ratepayers Thursday.

Final tabulations showed 1,993 in favor, with 338 against the franchise. Results of the voting give the B.C.E.R. the go-ahead signal for a plan to build a $750,000 depot and offices here.

Under the terms of the 26-clause agreement, the B.C.E.R. will pay to the city 4 per cent of the gross revenues annually. Tentative approval had already been given by the Public Utilities Commission.

A fine of $50 and a one-month license suspension was imposed against motorist John L. Litterer, 335 Moss Street, this morning by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court. He was in collision with a car driven by Dr. William Newton on Oct. 15 at Hillside Avenue and Blackwood Street.

Extensive damage was done to the cars. Litterer pleaded guilty to the charge Wednesday.

Parley On Changes In Constitution Set For January

OTTAWA (CP)—The Dominion-Provincial conference on constitutional amendments will be held early in January, it was indicated today.

Federal government sources said they expected the conference will be over by the time the next session of Parliament begins, late in January or early in February.

The suggestion of Prime Minister St. Laurent that a preliminary exploratory conference of constitutional experts be called, apparently has been abandoned because no general agreement between the Dominion and the provinces could be reached.

Department Vetoes Election Change

DUNCAN—There will be no change in the system for electing the four trustees from unorganized areas to the Cowichan School Board.

This is a Department of Education ruling from Victoria. At the last meeting of the school board a resolution asking for a change in the system was passed by a slim margin and then presented to the department for approval.

The board asked that instead of having ratepayers in each of the four districts in the unorganized territory elect their own trustees, board members be elected by ratepayers at large.

Claim Man May Be Responsible For World-Wide Warmer Weather

LONDON (NANA).—The world may be headed for an indefinite stretch of good weather, according to a top British authority.

Weather experts here have been seeking an explanation of the current beautiful fall, warmest since records were first kept at near-by Kew Observatory. They note with interest that New York City also has been experiencing an October "heat" wave.

Prof. G. S. Callendar, fellow of the Royal Meteorological Society, makes a strong case for the possibility that man himself has wrought the change. The scientist's arguments are published as the lead article in the latest issue of the society's monthly magazine, "Weather."

Human beings may have created world-wide warmer weather over the past 60 years by stripping land of forests and by burning ever increasing amounts of coal and oil, thereby disturbing "nature's slow-moving carbon balance," he writes. As a result—and tests prove it—there is a great surplus of harmless carbon dioxide in the air.

The gas has a peculiar property. It permits the sun's rays to pass without interference, just as through a clear window. But it resists, like a glazed surface, escape of heat from the earth into outer space.

"HEAT TRAP"

Callendar describes this gaseous blanket as a "heat trap" which allows "the temperature near the earth's surface to rise above the level it would attain if there were no carbon dioxide in the air." Formation of rain clouds, product of rapid cooling, is retarded by the resulting warmer weather, he adds.

To support his theory, which was first advanced by a Swedish scientist at the end of the last century, Callendar produces temperature records for the past 60 years from such scattered sites as London, Norway, Idaho, India and Argentina. The trend has been uniformly upward.

Painting a well-defined centre line on Johnson Street and Esquimalt Road, from Government to the Esquimalt boundary, was requested of the city Thursday by C. J. Hudson, local accountant. He said fog in the area at this time of the year made driving hazardous and a line on the pavement would help motorists.

'Air Attack' On City Planned

Plotting detachments from Victoria's Eighth Anti-aircraft Operations Unit will be exacting scenes like the one above at Vancouver this week-end when they participate in joint army-air force exercises. In background, left to right, Capt. J. McGregor, Capt. R. V. Parrett and Bdr. I. Ridley. Foreground: Gnr. J. Weeks, Sgt. G. C. English, Gnr. G. Stubbs, Bdr. G. W. Beck, Sgt. C. B. Williamson, Sgt. D. G. Chorlton, Sgt. R. C. Atkins and Gnr. R. Azad.

Victoria will be attacked by air around the end of December.

But there is no need to start digging an air-raid shelter in your back yard—it will all be part of joint army-air force exercises to be held at Vancouver, preliminaries for which will be held on the mainland this week-end.

Twenty-five local reserve army men will attend.

The "attack" on this city will be similar to that staged on New York last week-end by the R.C.A.F.'s Montreal auxiliary squadron.

Activities in which the local soldiers will take part this week-end are described as routine by an army spokesman. Exercises on Sunday will be a preliminary to future operations which will culminate in the all-out air attack on Victoria and southern Vancouver Island.

The reserve army gunners will work in close co-operation with 442 (City of Vancouver) Auxiliary Squadron, R.C.A.F., which is equipped with speedy Vampire jet aircraft.

The December "attack" will be carried out with both jet-type and propeller-type planes. The auxiliary squadron will provide both attacking and defending aircraft.

Preparatory communications and plotting exercises will be held throughout the fall by reserve army-air force teams.

REVEAL WEAKNESSES

The operations, in addition to producing close co-operation between ground and air forces, are expected to reveal any weaknesses in the reserve defence set-up, the army spokesman said today.

He added one need, already well known, was for both army and air force reserve recruits.

"We need men who can be trained as technicians," he said.

Want Proof Certificates Issued Medal Recipients

The Victoria and District Zone Council of the Canadian Legion will ask the Department of National Defence to issue certificates to Second World War veterans who are recipients of stars and medals for service as a means to certify they are entitled to wear them.

This was the unanimous decision of the council meeting Thursday night, and was a result to a motion endorsing the action of the Esquimalt Branch of the Canadian Legion's in protesting the absence of regimental number, rank, name and unit served with on stars and medals.

These details were engraved on the medals issued to First World War veterans.

The Zone Council's motion also asks that Ottawa fix a strong penalty against any engraver who engraves names and other particulars on the stars and medals without the production of the "proof" certificate.

Resolution will be channeled through to the Dominion Command for action.

MYTHS TOLD OF ILL FORTUNE WHEN MERMAIDS MARRIED MEN

Be careful of mermaids! They may cause you harm!

That is the warning which might have been given to you long ago if you had made a sea voyage. In those days there was a strong belief that mermaids existed in the salt water. They were described as being half-woman and half-fish.

Certain sailors declared that they had watched mermaids at the surface of the ocean, combing their long and beautiful hair. Those sailors either had "optical illusions" or were spinning yarns to amuse their friends on land.

One myth which grew up said that a mermaid had been captured by Dutch sailors, and had been taken to the city of Haarlem. This was supposed to have happened in the year 1403, and the tale went on to say that the mermaid had learned to use a spinning wheel.

Other myths were about mermaids who swam ashore, and took on completely human form. Meeting with men, these creatures of the sea were married.

It was declared that mermaids told their mates about things which were going to happen, or gave them special powers. Sometimes a mermaid would guard the man she loved very closely, and would punish anyone who hurt him.

In general, however, the marriages turned out sadly. The mermaid would leave her husband and would take back her fishlike form again. Then she would go back into the sea.

The stories about mermaids seem to have been most common in Denmark, Germany and the British Isles.

In Great Britain mermaids were said to live in lakes as well as in the sea. In Germany it was common to speak of these beings as "nixies." There was a dark ending to the German stories of nixies who mixed in the lives of people.

Mermaids, as well as mermaids, were described in the stories. According to the myths these half-men sometimes met mortal maidens and lured them into the sea to live.

Suggests Airport For Duncan Area

DUNCAN—A Duncan Chamber of Commerce committee will investigate the possibility of taking some action to acquire property in the district to be used as a landing field for aircraft.

Need for an airport here was outlined at a chamber meeting this week by T. L. Garner, representative of the B.C. Aviation Council.

A landing field in Cowichan is necessary, Mr. Garner said, if Duncan is to keep up with modern progress. The field at Cassidy has done much to aid air transportation between the island and the mainland, he observed, but is too far from Duncan for convenience.

Motorist Vernon A. Exton, Leaside Avenue, pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving when he appeared in Saanich police court Thursday afternoon. He was remanded to next Thursday for trial. Charge was laid on Oct. 20.

Medical Laboratory Workers To Meet

The president of the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists, Miss Ileen Kemp, acting as field representative in an extensive tour through the four western provinces, will meet technicians in Victoria and vicinity on Nov. 8 at 8 in the library of Jubilee Hospital.

Miss Kemp will acquaint technicians with the working aims and endeavors of the C.S.L.T. She will attempt to learn their desires, so that the C.S.L.T. as a representative body can truly represent its members.

Non-member technicians are invited to attend, since registration is being opened up for a period to enable many to seek registration, who have previously been unable to qualify due to a shortage of training facilities.

The society's aim is to improve the qualifications and standards of technicians throughout the Dominion by improving the academic standing and the training facilities, thereby raising the professional status of medical laboratory technologists.

Esquimalt Legion

Esquimalt Branch of the Canadian Legion has appointed A. C. Latter to the Greater Victoria Remembrance Day committee. Arrangements are being made to have two mounted guns received from the Esquimalt Municipality placed in position at Esquimalt Memorial Park before Remembrance Day.

Activities of the branch for the balance of the week include a dance tonight, movie shows Saturday afternoon at 2 and in the evening at 8. A working party has been asked for Saturday morning at the branch hall, 622 Admirals Road.

CLOSED MEETINGS

THIS NEWSPAPER AND OTHERS HAVE had occasion from time to time to complain about public bodies either barring reporters from their deliberations or restricting news-gathering agencies to what are colloquially known as hand-outs.

Even deliberations of the political entities which comprise the Greater Victoria administrative area have, at times, been carried on behind a barrier which reporters have found difficult to surmount. This method of procedure in relation to public affairs, of course, is not in the best interests of those clothed with a little brief authority nor is it in the wider interests of the taxpayer and the general public.

On several occasions, it will have been noted, we have taken exception to certain arbitrary rulings on the part of officials in charge of the affairs of one or two local municipalities. Because the implication of their actions was to discredit the intelligence of the average news-gatherer, we propose to set forth below some pertinent comments to which Mr. John Gordon, editor of the London Sunday Express and this year's President of Britain's Institute of Journalists, gave voice in his speech at the annual conference of that important organization. Mr. Gordon said in part:

"One matter of high importance has given us much concern through the year. It is the increasing tendency to shut reporters out of the discussions of various public bodies. We, as an organization, take the view that in the public interest, it is of vital importance that the proceedings of all statutory bodies should be reported on the widest and freest scale. "There can be no justification for secrecy in affairs that intimately concern and affect the life and well-being of the citizens. Indeed, not only is there no justification for secrecy but there is danger in it. It strikes at the foundations of democratic government."

When Mr. Gordon alluded to a practice which "strikes at the foundations of democratic government," he went to the root of a justified complaint of which every statutory body should take due and timely notice. No newspaperman or newspaperman worth his or her salt would raise a rumpus if it were politely suggested that it might be in the public interest to refrain from giving publicity to any part of a discussion calculated to disturb public feeling without any complementary benefit. Of course, an argument of this kind impinges on basic considerations which imply some form of censorship, a restraint which in its general application is anathema to the conscientious journalist.

Mr. Gordon's categorical statement in respect of the doings of statutory bodies, however, should be considered a guiding light for the few who, charged with public responsibilities, meet together for the transaction of business directly concerned with the welfare of the average citizen.

GRIM READING

TWENTY TRAFFIC DEATHS SO FAR this year have aroused Winnipeg citizens to a state of affairs that urgently invites a remedy. Last year the Manitoba capital listed 22 killed in traffic accidents and 1,188 injured, but 1949 has every indication of exceeding these tragic statistics. Jay-walking, disregard of traffic signals, the unusual width of some of the streets—these are all given as possible causes of the heavy toll. But the fact remains that the fatality rate has been shown to be greater per 10,000 vehicles in Winnipeg than in 47 United States cities of comparable size.

In this regard, the experience of Victoria so far this year appears hopeful by comparison, but still indicates that much can be done to improve conditions. With seven deaths in the Greater Victoria area and more than 200 injuries of varying severity, the police admonition to "drive carefully" is still a necessary warning. To that might be added "walk carefully" for adults, and "run carefully" for children. Avoidance of traffic accidents is a job for all who use the streets in any capacity. The onset of early darkness and winter weather will increase their responsibility.

WHO'S AFRAID?

IN RECENT YEARS PROBABLY NO field of human interest has been more subject to alarms and rumors than that of men's clothing. It is true, of course, that feminine fashions were thrown into a dither for a while with the "new look," but a state of dither is normal for that facet of civilization, and the drastic drop in the hemline was a business manoeuvre quite to be expected. A much less spectacular threat against masculine raiment, however, is capable of sending a ripple through the whole industry and eliciting thousands of words of comment and foreboding. Each year, for instance, the suspicious male has been threatened with a general brightening up of his costume colors. Pinks, pastels, mauves and other anxiety-producing shades have been announced as "the thing" for the coming season. But each year we have been mercifully spared the implementation of these plots. The odd garish costume has been worn by some figure from the entertainment world, but the average man has stuck to his comparatively sombre garb, and liked it. The coming season will be no exception. Already a writer in a Montreal paper has visited a showing of new fashions for men, and has revealed that "bright pink" or "canary yellow" may describe next spring's sports coat. Even barber-pole stripes have been mooted for "summer casual wear," but it is unlikely that many men will become that casual.

We take refuge in the thought that we have been through all this before: the descriptions of nightmarish cloths and colors, the trepidation as to their possible use, the promises (of the designers) that "everyone will be wearing them," the anxious wait, and the final, relieved realization that the whole thing has blown over once more and the danger is past. Thus we read of the coming horrors with a feeling of confidence. The old navy blue and the business grey will survive, and we may never even see a sample of the forecast rainbow hues. That, at any rate, is our earnest hope.

NO CARELESS DECISION

IT MAY BE TAKEN FOR GRANTED that the Greater Victoria Water Board has reached its decision to permit logging of the Sooke and Goldstream watersheds on a sustained yield basis only after the members have given the matter their most careful consideration. The board members are charged with the preservation of the public's interests and should not be suspected of yielding to pressure in arriving at the conclusions they have reached.

If the watersheds can be logged to the advantage of the board and, through it, of the community, the procedure will be satisfactory to the majority of our residents. As we understand the question, the measure is one to help finance watershed maintenance. Proceeds from the sale of timber will go toward costs of keeping the territory in good condition. If the forest can pay for its own care, so much the better.

On the basis of previous discussions of the matter, criticism of the decision may be expected. This may be justified by the shambles left in some regions which have been logged off in earlier years. Conscientious woodsmen and lovers of beauty have been appalled by the desolation created by some operations. In recognition of the merits of any protests that may be lodged, it should be the duty of the commission to see that its officers maintain close supervision over any cutting that is approved. If that is done, complaints will be minimized.

A NEW MEANING

ALTHOUGH THE REDOUTABLE SENATOR Robert A. Taft of Ohio has recently been reported to be preparing an "isolationist" program for presentation to the American people in a bid for Republican support in the 1950 elections and the Presidential contest of 1952, there can be, in view of his latest statement, little of the old pre-war meaning retained in the quoted adjective. "Isolationist," as applied to the sentiment that predominated in the mid-west United States, for instance, meant retirement from the rest of the world in all except commercial relations, a keep-out-of-Europe philosophy, a let-them-fight-their-own-fights attitude that was eventually whittled down by the patient insistence of President Roosevelt and emphatically dissipated by the Japanese bombs on Pearl Harbor.

Against that background, therefore, the assertion of Sen. Taft at Toledo, O., that if Russia attacks western Europe "she will find herself at war with us," poses an entirely new concept of American isolationism. It is obvious that the son of the late William Howard Taft, the 27th President of the United States, intends to indulge in no head-in-the-sand behavior when it comes to international affairs, however he may wish to deviate in certain particulars from the bi-partisan foreign policy that has characterized the post-war course of his country. The Atlantic Pact has taken priority over traditional American distrust of "foreign entanglements." Now the leading nation of the world, the United States is too deeply involved in global affairs ever to extricate herself—a fact which Americans cannot be allowed to forget, which other western countries should see as cause for gratification, and which Soviet observers should take care not to ignore.

SEVEN DAYS A WEEK

WHILE CURRENT CONTROVERSY over the Sabbath—whether it should be observed on Saturday or Sunday—may furnish a nice point for theological discussions, the differences of opinion on the question should have no effect on the general Sunday observance of the day of rest. What ever the origin of the designation of the first day in the week for that purpose, it is firmly established and honored by the vast majority of Canadians.

There is, of course, no reason why denominations which choose to make Saturday their Sabbath should not do so, provided they do not interfere with the rights of others who accept Sunday, and provided they do not violate laws relative to its maintenance as such.

As far as Christians are concerned, it seems logical to assume that they should hold to the tenets and practice of their faith seven days a week. Establishment of one specific day for formal worship, important as it may be, must remain a secondary consideration to continuous adherence to Christian principles throughout the waking hours.

There weren't as many neurotics in the old days. A man didn't have enough money to pay doctors and relied mostly on home remedies.

Matter Of Fact

THE SHOTGUN WEDDING

IT IS difficult to convey the momentous importance of Paul Hoffman's current mission to Europe, to promote European economic union. Perhaps the best way to put it is to say that this is the turning point of the American attempt to put the European economy on a self-supporting basis.

Making the United States' allies self-supporting was, of course, the objective of the European Recovery Program from the beginning. In the first phase, however, Marshall aid was used simply and directly, to rebuild Europe's war-shattered productivity. This job is over. By the end of the year, European industrial and agricultural output will be on a level with output in 1938.

PRECISELY this dramatic achievement is what makes the second phase both possible and necessary. Mere restoration of productivity has failed to restore economic stability in France and Italy, the Low Countries and the other Marshall Plan nations. The trouble is that intra-European trade is still being strangled by exchange restrictions, import quotas, tariffs and other devices of the period of scarcity. What must now be done is to secure the abandonment of these outworn protective devices. And this is the purpose of the European economic union which Hoffman will now attempt to promote. The ultimate aim is one great European trading area.

IT MUST be said at once that the impetus towards union has not come only from Washington. The idea has long had strong backing among Europeans. Some time ago French Finance Minister Maurice Petesche quietly inaugurated serious discussions of the project with the Italians, the Belgians, the Dutch and the E.C.A. European staff.

The greatest practical obstacle to European union, which was the false relationship between the European currencies, has also been cleared away in recent months. The British sterling devaluation forced the Europeans to place their own currencies on a realistic basis. Thus, although theoretically controlled in varying degrees, the franc, the lira and the other moneys of Europe are already, in practice, not far from being mutually convertible.

BOTH these hopeful developments initially generated considerable bad feeling. The British were furious that they had not been brought in to the talks started by Maurice Petesche. The French and other Europeans were equally enraged by the drastic character of sterling devaluation, which Petesche went so far as to call "economic warfare." Tempers have now subsided, however. When Hoffman meets in Paris next week with Sir Stafford Cripps, Signor Pella and the other European finance ministers, the situation will lend itself to constructive steps.

HOFFMAN himself has rather carefully laid the groundwork for bold action, long in advance of this annual meeting of finance ministers. Specifically both he and Averell Harriman have long been taking every opportunity to impress on officials of the Marshall aid countries that they would have to have "something to show for their money," in order to get next year's European recovery appropriations out of Congress.

Perhaps more important still, when the current year's Marshall aid appropriations were recently divided in Paris, Hoffman and Harriman only approved the division for the first six months. The balance, of $1,800,000,000 for the second six months, can still be re-allocated at will. This means that non-co-operators can be made to suffer greatly.

IN EFFECT, this power to change the division of the current year's Marshall aid, plus the danger in Congress, constitute Hoffman's shotgun. The shotgun will be used, if necessary, to encourage the already affectionate Europeans to legalize their economic union. Hoffman regards the situation as sufficiently urgent to employ his shotgun if he has to.

On the other hand, no visionary plan, merging all the nations of Europe and the sterling area into a single economy, is under consideration. Essential first steps are all that both the more far-sighted Europeans and Hoffman now want. Step number one is considered to be a substantive economic union of France, Italy and Belgium, as a minimum. To accomplish such a union, something like a central bank would be established to superintend monetary problems. Currencies would be made fairly freely convertible. Import quotas would be greatly reduced. And the participating nations would become a unified trading area.

STEP NUMBER TWO is considered to be admission of Western Germany to the organization for European economic co-operation. This recognition of the new German government's right to be heard on the problems of the European economy is in turn intended to be only preliminary. Later on, it is envisioned that Western Germany will take her place, as partner, with France, Italy and the other economically unified nations. And so, at last, the foundations of true European economic union will be laid.

No more complex, no more constructive task has ever been undertaken by an American negotiator. Paul Hoffman should be wished Godspeed.

As Our Readers See It

GULL-IBLE

I totally disagree with the views expressed by Frank H. Partridge, criticising an article written by Humphry Davy dealing with the slogan "Follow the Birds to Victoria."

I feel Mr. Partridge lacks the imagination of the writer, who encourages the choice of an original bird instead of slavishly copying the illustrated slogans of North American cities.

The gull is an unclean bird—and familiar to all cities. Furthermore, I agree there is still plenty of garbage being washed up on our beaches. Just watch the gulls.

GASOLINE PRICES

Regarding the requested further increase in gasoline prices, it is difficult to understand the statement that the reason for the suggested increase is that "fuel oil prices are too low."

It is usual that a decrease in basic cost of any raw material brings about a decrease rather than an increase in the subsequent refined or finished product.

The law of supply and demand, competition and free enterprise are being smothered these days, particularly in Canada when compared with U.S.A.

There surely is plenty of oil and water transport is cheap. There will have to be a lot of "explaining" to satisfy the people that gasoline should be 40c or more per gallon.

JUNIOR PATROL

The Kiwanis Junior Safety Patrol committee is gratified by the co-operation of the motorists of greater Victoria at school crossings. Parents particularly must appreciate the time and effort voluntarily given by the members of the patrols who receive instruction from a member of the local police force.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding of how these patrols operate, may I draw attention to the following points:

(1) As laid down by the city and municipal by-laws, motorists approaching school intersections are required to stop when signalled so to do by the patrol on duty. As a further precaution, the patrols are instructed to hold back students about to cross the street until it is evident that the motorist can and will stop. Whenever practical, the motorist is allowed to proceed without stopping.

(2) According to the rules of the Kiwanis Junior Safety Patrol, provision is not made for a member of a patrol to appear in police court. In an incident recently reported in the press where a motorist has been charged with an infraction of the by-law, it should be noted that the charge was laid by an Esquimalt police officer who witnessed the incident. There is no reason for any inference that police authority is being delegated to members of the patrols.

The Victoria Kiwanis Club through its junior safety patrol committee provides, at no small expense, equipment for all patrols; and working in close co-operation with the School Board and local police is making every effort to prevent accidents and ensure street crossings for the school children of Greater Victoria. In this effort we solicit the sympathetic help of all our citizens.

J. LEWIS W. McLEAN,
Chairman Kiwanis Junior Safety Patrol Committee.

ONE OF OUR OWN

I note with pleasure that Donna Grescoe, the great violinist, will be in Victoria High School Auditorium on Nov. 1.

This will be a great pleasure to all music lovers, and a glorious surprise to those who think all great artists must come from afar!

Donna Grescoe is one of our own Canadians and deserves well of all her compatriots. The business and professional women, who are sponsoring Donna's tour, are to be congratulated on their admirable determination to help us to know our own artists.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

RUSSIAN soldiers at Helmsstedt, in the Soviet-occupied zone of Germany, refused to let a truckload of Bibles proceed to Berlin.

"That's propaganda material," explained the Red officer in charge.

And, of course, he was quite right about the "propaganda" angle. The Bible is the greatest piece of promotion ever developed.

That is precisely why the Communists, who are battling religion as the dope of the masses, are anxious to prevent distribution of the world's most widely read volume. Hitlerian Nazism maintained the same attitude.

WASTING ENERGY

So the Russian officer of Helmsstedt was correctly following orders, and presumably his own conscience as well, if he is a loyal Communist. Still I have a notion he was wasting his energy. I don't believe you can kill religion that way any more than old King Canute could make the tide recede at his command.

As a matter of fact religion is doing all right for itself. There are many signs of moral and spiritual revival in various parts of our war-shocked world. This column called attention the other day to the indications that a religious revival may be boiling up in England.

SPIRITUAL AWAKENING

There is a widespread feeling in Britain that the country won't overcome its economic troubles or regain its old status as a world power until there has been a spiritual awakening. There also has been a post-war resurgence of religion in the Netherlands and other continental countries.

But we don't have to go to Europe or Asia to find this ferment working. We see it right here in the western hemisphere. One of my A.P. colleagues, John L. Springer, sought an explanation of why half a dozen religious books had climbed to the top of the non-fiction best selling lists in the United States.

The consensus was that this call for religious books indicated a large scale "return to religion" in the United States.

SOCIAL NOTES

Winnipeg Free Press
Away off here in Winnipeg a certain envy and detachment must attend the joyous news that the oyster harvest is in full swing in New Brunswick.

The St. John Telegraph Herald remarked recently "It seems odd that New Brunswick oysters are not better known." It could be there are any number of people over the country just dying to meet the New Brunswick oyster socially, but are foregoing the pleasure because of the dizzy financial level at which the fascinating creature circulates.

TWISTED RULING

Montreal Gazette
The state serves the public only when the public controls the state. This cannot be done simply by the forms of democracy, such as can very well serve even a totalitarian regime. It can be done only by preventing the state from enlarging its resources indefinitely at the expense of the independent resources that can hold it in check.

Any state that has gained the power to control the public will also lose the inclination to be obedient to the public. The public must then be obedient to the state. As even Dr. Benes had to say at the end: "I am forced to travel this road no matter where it leads."

COMPETITION

Financial Post
Britain would resent any extensive advertising of Canadian foods in the United Kingdom, Agriculture Minister Gardiner stated in the House of Commons. The British government, Mr. Gardiner explained, is buying food from all over the world and it might be embarrassed if consumers, as a result of advertising, started to demand produce from any particular country. On this account, Mr. Gardiner added, the Dominion government had decided it would be inadvisable to put on any definite program of advertising in Britain just now.

If Britain expects to sell more cars, textiles, cutlery, china and other lines in Canada, the British exporters will have to get out and advertise and we will have to do the same about our goods in Britain. If in doing so we tramp on the toes of less efficient producers and cause some embarrassment to state buying bureaucrats, what of it? After all, good healthy competition is the life and the hope of trade.

Population At A New High

From Bureau of Business Conditions Letter

FIGURES recently published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reveal that Canada's population has been rising at a steadily increasing rate since the close of the war. On June 1, 1945, the population of the nine provinces totaled 12,433,000 persons. A gain of 188,000 was made during the next 12 months, followed by gains of 275,000, 301,000 and 314,000 in the next three yearly periods, bringing the total for the nine provinces to 13,137,000 as of June 1 of the present year.

The entry of Newfoundland into the Confederation added 348,000, to raise the total population of the Dominion to 13,545,000 persons. Newfoundland's population has shown a rise of 26,000 from the 1945 census figure of 322,000.

During the 12 months ended May 31 of this year, 342,000 children were born in the nine provinces. As the number of deaths recorded was 117,000, the natural increase in the population amounted to 225,000. In addition, nearly 125,000 entered Canada during the period, while some what over 30,000 persons emigrated, producing a net gain of approximately 95,000.

PROVINCES GAIN
All of the nine provinces except Prince Edward Island shared in the population gain of 314,000 which was made between May 31 a year ago and June 1 of this year.

Ontario led with an increase of 114,000, followed by Quebec with an increase of 95,000. British Columbia came third with an increase of 32,000. A gain of 27,000 was registered in Alberta, of 21,000 in Manitoba, of 13,000 in New Brunswick, of 10,000 in Nova Scotia, and of 7,000 in Saskatchewan. Prince Edward Island suffered a population loss of 3,000 persons.

The Dominion's civilian labor force has increased with the gain in population. As of June 1, the labor force reached an estimated total of 5,121,000 persons. The increase over a year earlier amounted to 91,000. Of the total labor force, an estimated 5,018,000 were employed on June 1, an increase of 70,000 over the number employed on June 1 of 1948.

World Government Movement Grows

By DOUGLAS LARSEN from Washington

ANNOUNCEMENT that Russia has the secret of the atomic bomb has inspired amazing grass roots support in the U.S. behind the world government idea.

This is reported by sponsors of such plans who appeared before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. The committee held hearings on several world government resolutions now before Congress.

In small towns all over the country, organizations are suddenly being formed to support the national groups which are pushing some kind of a united states of the world. The four leading organizations are the Atlantic Union Committee, United World Federalists, United Nations' Association and the Citizens' Commission for United Nations Reform.

CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions are now being received by these groups from thousands of persons who never were solicited or approached on the matter, it is reported. The Atlantic Union Committee just received one cheque of $500 from a lady who said she had just read about the committee's work in the newspaper. She wrote that she hoped her donation would help bring peace to the world.

All of the groups have also suddenly been deluged by requests for literature, membership blanks, and more information on how to organize local clubs. Letters are coming from all over the U.S. They have one theme in common. The writers seem to be convinced that with Russia possessing the A-bomb, the only hope for peace is through world government.

This surprising response appears to have injected new life into the movements.

National Radio Week Oct. 29 To Nov. 5

Public Given Opportunity To View, Hear Outstanding Models In Field Of Radio

National Radio Week coincides with U.S. Radio Week and is sponsored in Canada by the leading associations related to broadcasting, manufacturing and merchandising.

It is the largest promotion ever undertaken by the radio industry in Canada.

The public is being given the opportunity to view and hear the many outstanding new features incorporated in the 1950 model radios and radio-phonograph combinations.

Radio dealers will put special displays in their windows and will provide special facilities for the public to hear the new models in their stores.

Outstanding features of the new sets are cabinets styled in beautifully-handled woods in such attractive finishes as walnut, mahogany, lined oak, autumn leaf mahogany, honey and golden mahogany. These harmonize well with modern home furnishings.

FIDELITY OF TONE

Careful research and hundreds of experiments in radio laboratories has resulted in tonal fidelity of exceptional quality.

Recorded music is now reproduced free from distortion, high notes are clearer, bass notes richer and fuller. Record surface noises have been virtually eliminated by the use of vinyl plastic in new type records, and by lightweight tone arms exerting minimum pressure on the record. Record and needle wear has been cut to a minimum by the use of precious metal and jeweled needles.

Automatic record-changing mechanisms have been improved.

Ford's Pension Plan Approved

DETROIT (AP)—The automobile industry today marked another milestone in its labor relations history.

Ford's $100-a-month pension plan, first in the industry, was approved Thursday.

Applying to Ford's 115,000 production workers, the plan was accepted in a vote by the Ford rank and file membership of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers.

Unofficially estimated to cost $30,000,000 a year, the plan will be paid for entirely by the company.

Pensions have been the U.A.W.-C.I.O.'s No. 1 objective in its 1949 bargaining drive. A wage increase was sidetracked at Ford in favor of pensions.

The Ford plan provides that a worker who retires at age 65 after 30 years' service will be paid $100 a month, inclusive of social security benefits.

Technicians Combine To Advance Science Of Radio

By NORMAN TOVEY, Secretary, R.E.T.A., B.C. Council

Formed in 1928 and incorporated in 1934, the Associated Radio Technicians of B.C. consisted of a body of men engaged in the technical side of the radio industry who were determined to raise their own status and to give the public a fair deal.

Started in Vancouver, the association spread to Victoria—where the chapter received its charter in 1937—and further to the Fraser Valley and Okanagan districts. In the meantime a little publicity had traveled eastwards, and the prairie provinces began to follow the lead set in British Columbia.

In Ontario, too, were many men alive to the possibilities of organization amongst radio technicians, and in that province was formed a similar body known as the "Radio Electronic Technicians Association."

Here one may emphasize that these associations were, and are, in no way trade unions, but preferred to model their conduct upon the older trade guilds, and the professional bodies co-ordinating lawyers, doctors, architects, etc.

WITH COMMON AIMS
Thus from the industrial east to the Pacific Northwest there existed chartered associations with these common aims:

The highest possible technical standards.

A rigid code of business ethics.

Provision for disciplinary action among the members.

Standardized fair prices, and above all a guarantee of satisfaction for the public.

All technicians actively engaged in the radio and allied trades are welcomed as members, and once admitted, the new member finds at the monthly meetings good fellowship, technical instruction and entertainment, and he no longer passes without acknowledgment, the man employed by a competitor, but halls him as a friend and brother craftsman.

Employers, too, are encouraged to join the associations, and do so to their mutual advantage.

This year marked a turning point in the history of these associations. At a meeting in Winnipeg, delegates from all provinces concerned finally put the seal on the affiliation of all the existing organizations under one banner—that of the "Radio Electronic Technicians Association"—a name truly more descriptive of the members' many technical activities. So, we in British Columbia, birthplace of an idea which has spread so far are now members of R.E.T.A., a Dominion-wide organization with identical aims and ambitions, and we say with pride, the only organization of its kind in the world, and we think, unique in that employer and employee meet together on equal terms, and whose purpose of advancement technically and ethically marches side by side with the aim of greater satisfaction for the public, who are fast learning to "rely on R.E.T.A."

C.A.R.A.D. Embraces Most Radio Dealers

The Canadian Association of Radio and Appliance Dealers, a branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada is a Dominion-wide organization embracing the majority of radio and appliance dealers. Its pledge of quality, integrity and service is carried out to its fullest degree by all members in order that the buying public dealing with members of C.A.R.A.D. are assured of quality, fair treatment and satisfaction.

The association wants it to be well known throughout Canada that the radio and appliance trade is characterized by fair trade practices.

Directors of the Victoria Branch of the association are as follows: Chairman, A. B. Food; secretary, R. W. Patrick; and directors, James Morgan, Dave Banfield, Tyson Dickinson, Gerald Stelck, Gerald Murphy, Jack Wilcox. Past chairman is M. Abrey Kent.

Radio Commercial Gives Club Laughs

Victoria Rotarians had fun at their luncheon meeting Thursday kicking around a typical radio commercial.

The clubmen, who are getting ready for their annual charity radio auction to be held Dec. 8, used the commercial as a test for five members wanting to try out for announcers' jobs. Those taking part in the contest were Dean G. R. Calvert, T. J. Goodlake, John Gough, Stewart Evans, Arthur Petch and Tom Morrison.

The commercial, each was required to deliver pretended to be about pills for stomach disorders. "Noburpums," the contestants claimed in all seriousness, "come ready to use as super-convenient capsules about the size of a regulation baseball."

Special Programs

During National Radio Week radio stations across Canada will release special programs, including "behind the scenes" interviews with the men and women who actually put on the programs.

Special talks on the cultural aspects of radio will be given by well-known radio personalities. Farm commentators will devote time to the advantages brought to rural dwellers through radio. Special school broadcasts will be among the features to be released.

Radio Phonographs Fine Entertainment

With the modern new radio-phonograph combinations listeners enjoy not only the splendid variety of music and entertainment offered by top-flight radio shows from the finest studios in the world, but may also listen to favorite recordings at their leisure.

The Ex-R.A.F. Club meeting originally scheduled for tonight will not be held as the club has now been incorporated into the newly-organized Imperial Club which will meet Wednesday night at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Clubroom.

Collecting Jazz Records Becoming Big Business

CHICAGO (AP)—There may be a pot of gold hidden in the dusty phonograph records in your attic. Jazz record collecting is big business, and collectors' items bring good prices.

George Hoeler, writer, jazz critic and long-time collector, lists two King Oliver records on the old Gennett label, either of which, he estimates, would bring $1,000.

There is only one known copy of one of these 1923 discs—"Zulu's Ball" and "Workingman Blues," on Gennett 5275. The owner of this record keeps it locked in a safety deposit box. The other record, "If You Want My Heart," and "That Sweet Something Dear," on Gennett 5276, is known to exist, but has never turned up.

SURFACE WEAR

Any discussion of prices, Hoeler emphasizes, presupposes that the record is in "mint" condition. Prices decline in geometric ratio to the amount of surface wear to which a waxing has been subjected. But even a poor condition copy of either of the fabulous Oliver records would be valuable. A disc is considered a collector's item when it contains good jazz (sometimes only a phrase or two by a well-known artist), and when there are not enough copies to satisfy demand. This can be due to a small original pressing, or to the fact that many musicians recorded under pseudonyms and their work was not recognized until after copies were lost, discarded or widely dispersed.

If you have some old records on the Q.R.S. label by Earl Hines, they'll sell. Hoeler estimates, for $50 each. They were Hines' first recorded piano solos. The company which made them stayed in the recording business only a few months.

A plea of guilty was entered by Donald Conlin, sailor, Thursday afternoon in Saanich police court. He was remanded to next Thursday to hear evidence of officers who attended the Gorge-Admirals Roads accident in which accused was involved with his motorcycle Oct. 27. Conlin also pleaded guilty to not having a current driver's license.

Five new members were accepted into the order at the meeting. They were Earl Dunnett, Clive Watson, Douglas Park Jr., Ian Freemantle and Howard Estlin.

McManus Re-elected Cosmopolitan Chief

Tony McManus was re-elected president of the Victoria Cosmopolitan Club Thursday night at a meeting in the Club Sirocco.

Other officers named at the meeting were Al Harvey, vice-president; Douglas Lawson, corresponding secretary; William Miller, recording secretary; Harry W. Smith, treasurer, and Max David, sergeant-at-arms.

Lew MacDonald and Edward Porter were named to the club's board of managers until June, 1951, while Al Corlett, David Curry and Luke Raesbeck will serve until June of next year.

WHEELS HIT THE BIG TIME—Dwarfing two men and the automobile in the background, this huge four-wheeled trailer, pictured in Akron, Ohio, will carry oil derricks in Arabian oil fields. The tires are the largest ever to be built commercially. Each one is almost 10 feet in diameter, weighs over 3,500 pounds, and carries a 55,000-pound load.

Massey Notes Growing National Feeling All Across Country

Evidence of a growing national feeling in Canada has been noted across the country, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman of the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences, said on his arrival here Thursday afternoon.

The commission began two-day sittings here this morning.

One of Canada's distinguished men, Mr. Massey was the first diplomat to be granted full ambassadorial status (in 1927), former High Commissioner for Canada in the United Kingdom, and is now chancellor of the University of Toronto.

"The briefs which are submitted to us often deal with local or regional matters, but all recognize the national importance of this inquiry. Some briefs are outside the boundaries of the inquiry itself, but nonetheless are interesting and have a definite place in the general picture of Canada," the short, dapper statesman said.

DESIRE TO CO-OPERATE

Since the commission opened its hearings in Ottawa, Aug. 3, its members have noted a "great desire to co-operate" on the part of those who have appeared.

"We have found a very active and widespread interest in Canadian culture—a much greater interest than we had anticipated. People seem to recognize that this is a timely survey," Mr. Massey said.

EVENING SESSION

Though the commission was forced to hold evening sessions in Winnipeg and Vancouver to cover the many briefs presented, the amiable chairman said he was "too busy to be tired."

Sittings have been held so far in Ottawa, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver. After leaving Victoria the party will sit at Calgary, Regina, Toronto and Montreal. The maritimes and Newfoundland will be covered after the new year.

Mr. Massey, who is accompanied by his wife, could not say just when the report and recommendations of the commission would be handed to the government, but said the target was "sometime next summer." He added this was not too definite, as there was a tremendous amount of material to be studied.

One of the first things Mr. Massey did following his arrival from Vancouver by boat Thursday afternoon, was to call at the Parliament Buildings and City Hall where he paid his respects to Premier Byron Johnson and Mayor Percy George, respectively.

The provincial cabinet will be hosts to the commission at a dinner tonight.

Accompanying the commission, are Archibald Day, secretary, who is on loan from the Department of External Affairs; Peter Wright, Toronto, legal counsel to the commission, two typists and two court reporters who record proceedings at the sittings.

Mr. Day emphasized that the sessions are open to the public. They are being held in the Coalition Members' room at the Parliament Buildings.

Plan Money By-law For Library Wing

It is expected City Council will approve the presentation of a by-law to the ratepayers in December to finance construction of a four-story addition to the Public Library.

Working plans for the library wing have been approved by the Library Board, and a meeting with council has been scheduled.

Mayor Percy George and several of the aldermen have agreed with board members that the need for additional space at the library is urgent and it is expected the borrowing of between $250,000 and $300,000 for the building will be requested of the ratepayers.

The Public's Only Guarantee of SATISFACTION

Will Challenge Careless Driving Section Of M.V.A.

George F. Gregory is the second Victoria lawyer to challenge the validity of the careless driving Section 57 of the Motor Vehicle Act.

He told Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court Thursday afternoon of his intention to question the section's validity when he appeared as counsel for Algernon B. Parker, 766 Topaz Avenue, charged with careless driving. Mr. Gregory said the plea was not guilty in protest to the charge being laid under the section.

Magistrate Hall pointed out that the validity of the provincial statute was unsuccessfully challenged recently. This was by D. E. C. Anderson, one of Victoria's newest additions to the lawyer ranks.

The magistrate said he had gone into the matter carefully and that as far as he was concerned he was satisfied as to his decision.

"However, you might change my mind," said Magistrate Hall, to which Mr. Gregory replied that he did not flatter himself to that extent.

Czech Bobby-Soxers Resent Slur At Bing

PRAGUE (AP)—An overflow Prague music theatre audience Thursday night burst out with a storm of angry protests when a program commentator criticized Bing Crosby as a "greedy American money-seeker who sacrifices his art for gold."

The Czech audience, including many bobby-soxers, had stood in long queues to jam into the little theatre to hear a two-hour program of Crosby recordings. It loosed salvos of shouts and whistling in defence of Bing.

The crowd didn't even relent when the announcement said some kind words for Bing's rival, Frank Sinatra.

Some of the feelings loosed may have been pent up from the little war over American jazz which is currently rocking Prague's youth. Ardent Communists in the Czechoslovak Youth Front have been campaigning against jazz and jitterbugging as decadent examples of western culture.

More Aid For Art, Sciences Urged On Royal Commission

Leading cultural organizations gathered at 10 this morning in the Coalition Members' Room, Legislative Building, to submit to the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences, their proposals for enriching and promoting Canadian culture.

The morning session was opened by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman. He was assisted by Norman A. M. MacKenzie, University of British Columbia; Most Rev. Georges-Henri Levesque, Laval University, and Miss Hilda Neatby, University of Saskatchewan.

The urgent need for government assistance for national agencies to promote Canadian culture was evident in the briefs submitted to the commission.

Increased financial support for the National Art Gallery, National Museum, National Film Board and other national agencies, was urged by citizens of Greater Victoria.

The brief submitted by Dr.

Marian N. Sherman and Miss Sara Spencer suggested the establishment of a National Theatre.

"It is our opinion that the federal government should recognize its responsibility in this field," stated the brief.

The brief also stated that it was entirely in agreement with the general policy of federal control over broadcasting and of the inclusion of television with the jurisdiction of the corporation.

The organization also strongly recommended the appointment of a Canadian Commission on UNESCO.

FREE FLOW OF IDEAS

"We are convinced that the vital help with UNESCO is able to render to the mental advance of the world will be hindered as long as there are unnecessary restrictions to the flow and exchange of ideas and cultural materials," the brief said. "We would ask the federal government to examine existing postal, customs and other regulations and to make them as flexible as it is compatible with public safety.

Establishment of a National Cultural Council that would do for Arts, Letters and Sciences what the National Research Council is doing for the physical sciences, was also recommended by the organization.

"Unfortunately there has been no comparable assistance given to the cultural science," it said. "They are forced to depend upon the munificence of private individuals or of foreign corporations."

AID FOR INDIANS

The Fraser Canyon Indians Arts and Crafts Society and the B.C. Indian and Welfare Society both asked for government assistance to promote the health, education and social welfare of B.C. natives.

The Fraser Canyon group, through Mrs. A. J. Tullis, suggested the establishment of craft training centres where instruction in a large variety of crafts could be obtained by both Indians and white people.

Mrs. Tullis pointed out that it would give the Indians a feeling of responsibility for their own affairs and practical experience in democratic management of a project in co-operation with their white neighbors.

The federal government was strongly urged by the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society to assist the Indians with the marketing of their handicrafts.

"To repair the damage of the past neglect the remnants of native culture which have been conserved in museums and libraries must be brought back to the Indian people," the society's brief said. "One way to do this is by instructing native school children in their arts."

INTEREST IN DRAMA

A recommendation that the Dominion government take a lively and practical interest in drama, including the professional theatre, was made by the B.C. Drama Association which was represented by H. S. Hurn.

It was pointed out that during the past several years B.C. has been visited by few touring companies and the production given had only touched Vancouver and Victoria to a limited degree. The audience-percentage of the population had been infinitesimal and the contribution to the development of stage drama has been more or less negligible.

Opens Radio Station Early In New Year

Plans for the opening of Victoria's new radio station are announced for Jan. 1, or early in the new year, by David M. Armstrong, general manager. Mr. Armstrong states programs and entertainment aired will be based on analytical research of listener preference in the Greater Victoria area.

In staffing the new Victoria station, local artists, writers, announcers and engineers will be given preference. Mr. Armstrong expects to be in Victoria early in November.

New Primary School Opened At Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The $75,000 Princess Royal primary school was opened officially by Education Minister W. T. Straith.

The minister cut a ribbon stretched across the entrance, and declared the school open.

Before doing so, he watched a presentation by acting Mayor George Addison of a framed picture of the old ship, Princess Royal, to John Barsby, chairman of the Nanaimo and District School Board.

The school was named after the old ship which carried the first coal miners to Nanaimo from England in 1854.

The picture will be hung in the hall of the school.

Teachers of the new school will be Miss Sheila Dwyer, Mrs. Arthur Spencer, Miss Dolly Fischer, Miss Annie Break and Mrs. Arthur Hitchen.

The DOCTOR Says:

ONE RARE DISEASE LED TO A MAGIC CURE AND A ROMANCE

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

You probably never heard of myasthenia gravis. It's a very rare condition whose cause is still unknown but its treatment, if not cure, has been enormously improved. There is a real medical miracle story in connection with the treatment.

It begins with a rather typical description of the malady given by an anonymous patient recently in the British Lancet. Her cure was the "miracle" mentioned above.

The patient was 18 years old in 1925. She first noticed seeing double and felt fatigued. After several months of this, while she was ironing a dress she suddenly found that she could not hold up her head which kept dropping forward. Soon thereafter her knees started giving way underneath her at odd times.

In February, 1935, 10 years after the first symptoms began, the patient's fiancé, who was a medical student, told her that he had something new for her to try. Her first thought, she said, was "Oh bother! Another injection and another false hope." "I submitted to the injection," she said, "and within a few minutes began to feel very strange. When I lifted my arms, exerting the effort to which I had become accustomed, they shot into the air. Every movement I attempted was grotesquely magnified until I had learned to make less exertion. I had simply regained relatively normal strength—it was strange, wonderful, and at first very frightening." The drug was neostigmine which the patient continued to take almost every day for the next 14 years.

In the summer of 1937 the patient married her medical benefactor. It was a happy ending to our story.

Question: Is a crooked nose easily straightened or does it require an operation?

Answer: I do not know of any way except an operation to straighten a crooked nose.

China Missionary Here To Conduct Training Course

Miss Constance Williston, Dominion Supervisor of Girls Work for Church of England, arrived in the city earlier this week as part of a Dominion-wide tour. She was greeted by Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, Diocesan Board Girls' Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary in Victoria.

Miss Williston's work includes organization and encouragement of girls' work in the church, meeting girls, leaders and those interest persons and giving training courses where possible.

She will conduct training courses here in Memorial Hall from Nov. 1 to 4, to be opened by Canon H. H. Creal.

The supervisor, who is staying at Y.W.C.A. while in this city, will leave Nov. 6 for up-island, where she will carry on her work for three weeks.

Miss Williston, whose parents were missionaries in China, where she was born, is a deaconess. For two years she served as missionary in China, and left there late last year to return to Canada.

She arrived in Vancouver, Christmas Eve, and since that time has been living in Toronto where she makes her headquarters.

Highland Dancers Perform In Seattle

A group of 18 Highland dancers and pipers, led by Adeline Grant Duncan, leave Saturday for Seattle where they will present a concert for the 15th annual Seattle Pipe Band Association concert and dance to be held in the Masonic Auditorium.

Marking their second appearance in Seattle for the pipe band affair, the local dancers will perform traditional Highland dances as well as many new numbers.

Accompanists will be Pipe Majors Andrew Pollock and Ian Duncan.

Also crossing for the affair will be approximately 50 representatives from all Scottish societies in this city.

Canadian Women Here With Royal Commission

Dr. Hilda Neatby, M.A., Ph.D. . . . only woman on commission.

"Perhaps you had better say I'm a Canadian by adoption," Dr. Hilda Neatby said with a smile, "although I was only two years old when I came to Canada so you can see why I think of myself as a real Canadian."

Dr. Neatby is now assistant professor of history at University of Saskatchewan, and she is on a year's absence from her work in order that she may travel, as the only woman member, with the Royal Commission on National Development of Arts, Letters and Sciences.

"That isn't quite right," she tells us modestly, "Mrs. Vincent Massey is traveling with us, too. And we have stenographers, secretaries, many of them girls. I never think of myself as the lone woman with the commission."

Very proud to represent the west—or as she says "the western women"—Dr. Neatby believes she may have been chosen for the commission because of her work with women's organizations in Saskatchewan and the middle west.

"This work has been along broad educational lines," she explains. "As you may know, Saskatchewan is very highly organized and I have traveled in many regions lecturing and talking to study groups."

"I think you may say that my work to the commission is in the field of letters," she said laughingly. "My knowledge of arts and the sciences is very general."

Dr. Neatby's family came from England to settle on a farm in Saskatchewan.

"I'm a real farm woman at heart," she tells you. "I can milk a cow, take care of chickens and I think I could even help with the plowing."

"You see, until I was 14 years I did all those things."

High school days were spent in Saskatoon, and she graduated from University of Saskatchewan, where she is now teaching.

There was also a year at the Sorbonne in Paris, and post-graduate work at the University of Minnesota.

Her hobbies, Dr. Neatby says, are reading for relaxation and cooking and housekeeping "from necessity." She likes gardening but has very little opportunity for it now as she lives with her mother in an apartment in Saskatoon.

This is her second visit to Victoria.

"I spent a glorious holiday here, a year ago," she tells you, "and I've been waiting to reach here again. Your city is so beautiful!"

Presbyterian executive, United Church, Women's Missionary Society, meeting postponed to Nov. 4. . . . King's Daughters, district meeting Monday at 8, 725 Courtney Street.

Toastmistress Club Hears Need For Theatre Of Arts

The need for better facilities in Victoria for creative arts was stressed again at the regular dinner meeting of the Victoria Toastmistress Club, Monday evening, by club member Mrs. P. Rayment in her address entitled "An Art Centre for Victoria."

The speaker explained the necessity for a theatre in the city where drama, dancing and such displays might be presented at popular prices. There should be, she maintained, accommodation for art and handicraft exhibits of all description, which accommodation would in addition afford opportunities for citizens of the city to study painting, modeling, and allied arts.

Upon conclusion of her address, a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Rayment by Mrs. Marie Black.

The program was conducted by Miss Helen Greaves, toastmistress for the evening, who introduced the other speakers.

Miss Margaret Harness gave, a five-minute talk entitled "Springtime in the Rockies"; Miss Connie Chow gave a two-minute impromptu talk entitled "A Holiday Incident"; and three new members, Mrs. S. Marmo, Mrs. D. Davidson and Miss A. M. Loughead, gave introductory speeches.

Table topic was conducted by Mrs. M. Bell, who gave each member present two minutes in which to express her general views and impressions of the province of British Columbia.

J. Chapman, past president, Union Toastmaster Club, No. 331, was guest critic for the evening. Next meeting of the club will be held at Cairo Coffee Shop, Nov. 7 at 6 p.m. A short induction service will be held on that occasion when new members will be formally admitted and welcomed into the club.

Clubwomen's News

Sale Realizes $53—At the meeting of St. Peter's Women's Guild, it was announced that a sum of $53.75 had been realized at a tea and sale of home cooking held last month. Members are now working for a bazaar to be held the middle of November with stalls of home cooking, fancy work, old curiosities, novelties, flowers and plants.

Langford Bonfire

Sponsored by the Langford Parent-Teachers Association and the Langford Women's Institute, a Halloween party will be held on Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the community hall grounds. There will be a bonfire, with hot dogs, candy and apples served to the children.

This fall marks the beginning of an annual Raisin Harvest Festival. It starts Nov. 3 and is an excellent time to make all sorts of raisin goodies. It's not one bit too soon to make your fruit cakes for the holiday season either.

For the first time since the war, there will be plenty of pear whole fruit nectar for everyone. It has a very appealing, smooth bland flavor. It's good to know too, that the popular apricot whole fruit nectar will be plentiful again.

Open Saturday Bazaar

Royal Road Chapter, I.O.D.E., bazaar and tea to be held in Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Co., this Saturday will be officially opened at 2:30 by Municipal Regent Mrs. J. L. Ford. Stuffed animals and toys for Christmas will be among articles for sale on the needlework stall convened by Mrs. J. Rogers. Mrs. E. Percy Angus will convene candy and home cooking and Mrs. J. C. F. Blouwey, afternoon tea. Mrs. D. E. Alcorn is publicity and general convenor and Mrs. M. Zabel will look after door tickets.

Zeta Chapter Fetes Future Pledges

Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, were hostesses to their prospective pledges at a preferential tea on Sunday at the home of Miss Iris Stewart, 3609 Richmond Road.

The guests, welcomed by Miss Helen McKee, Zeta's vice-president and pledge captain, were each presented with a yellow rosebud corsage bouquets. Accepting invitations were Misses Francis James, Rose Lee, Sylvia Lee, Betty Brewer, Edith Scarff, Mrs. Lillian Langley and Betty Armstrong.

During the afternoon solos were given by Mrs. Barbara Brown and Mary Youson of Xi Beta Chapter and formerly of Zeta.

Mrs. W. Stewart and Mrs. Maude Hammond presided at the urns and the tea table was decorated with yellow roses and yellow tapers. Serviteurs included Francis West, Mollie Archer, Grace Kerkham, Peggy Dykes, Margaret Skinner, Betty Morrison and Isobel Helander.

Membership Tea Realizes $158

Profusions of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums were arranged throughout the Mural Room, at the Y.M.C.A. for the autumn membership tea held by Ladies' Auxiliary to Y.M.C.A. Thursday afternoon.

The sum of $158.50 was realized.

Mrs. Donald MacAdie, president, and Mrs. E. T. Kenney, general convenor of the affair, welcomed the many guests.

Presiding at the tea table, which was covered with a lace cloth and centred by a low white bowl of huge mauve and white chrysanthemums flanked by white tapers in crystal holders, were Mrs. Byron I. Johnson, Mrs. W. E. Straith, Mrs. Percy E. George and Mrs. F. Paulding.

Mrs. J. V. Johnson was in charge of tea arrangements. Assisting were Mesdames B. Caruthers, S. Winterbottom, W. Martin, B. E. Nickells, F. L. Honor, M. Sands, S. J. D. Clark, F. T. Fairie, H. M. Cotter and G. M. Duncan.

Mrs. Warren Martin and Mrs. J. Brown were in charge of decorations.

During the afternoon guests enjoyed a musical program presented by Malcolm Hamilton and Joan Creighton, piano solos; Muriel and Vivian Trimble and Jacqueline Johnston, violin solos; Dorothy MacCharles, vocal solo; accompanied by Joan Creighton and Malcolm Hamilton; Diane Sawyer, vocalist, accompanied at the piano by Jacqueline Sawyer.

Door receipts were in charge of Mrs. G. F. Brown and Mrs. Ray Parfitt.

Brentwood Women's Institute, tonight at 8, 500 card party in hall. . . . Saturday at 3, Brentwood Women's Institute Hall, afternoon tea, sale home cooking, aprons, musical program.

"We have another great interest," Mrs. Massey explains, "in our two sons, their charming Canadian wives, and our three grandchildren, all little girls."

"You can see we do more than travel together," she says with a quiet smile, "we do everything together. Sharing is one of our greatest joys."

"Perhaps that is why being a diplomat's wife has brought me so few headaches and so much of interest," she concludes.

Of Personal Interest

Prior to the Trafalgar Day dance this evening, Cmdr. and Mrs. L. S. Roland will entertain a few friends at their Prospect Place home.

Lady Wainwright, who has spent the summer and autumn months in Calgary, has now returned to Victoria and will be a guest at Oak Bay Beach Hotel for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Stephenson of Toronto, who have spent the past three months in this city, are now spending several days in Vancouver, as guests at Hotel Vancouver, en route to their eastern home.

In honor of Mrs. Graham Steed, wife of the newly-appointed conductor of Victoria Choral Union, Mrs. William Ellis, Thorpe Place, will entertain members of the choir at the tea hour, Sunday afternoon. Among guests will be Mr. Graham Steed, Bishop H. Sexton and Mrs. Sexton, Dean R. J. Calvert and Mrs. Calvert.

Of interest in this city is news that Mr. and Mrs. Wendy Tolmie, who were married in Montreal in September have arrived in Vancouver, after visiting New York, Ottawa and other eastern points. They are guests of Mr. Tolmie's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Andrews. Mr. Tolmie, who has been living in Saudi Arabia for a number of years, and his bride, plan to make their home in Vancouver.

Misses Dorothy Newman and Nancy Chalmers entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the latter's home, 832 Canterbury Road, to honor Miss Avis Butler, November bride-elect. Corsage bouquets were presented to the honor guest and to her mother, Mrs. A. St. J. Butler. Games were played, winners being Misses Maureen McCabe, Irene Smith and Mary Stevenson.

Other guests were Mesdames T. Chalmers, J. Newman, S. Allen, E. Allan, J. Pinniger, and Misses Dinah Kerr, Eleanor Patterson, Grace Livingstone, Margaret Livingstone, Madeline Marks, Sadie Preston, Pa Slaven and Jane Hind.

Mrs. Kelly Speaks To Play Group

Members of the Langford Co-operative Play Group for pre-school children, recently heard an address by Mrs. T. R. Kelly, pre-school convenor. Greater Victoria Parent-Teacher Council, last Tuesday evening. Following the speaker, Mrs. R. Freemantle presented the benefits of a discussion group in connection with the play group and it was decided to start two new groups with Mrs. C. D. Wilson as chairman. Mrs. Robert Taylor was named secretary-treasurer. First meeting of the new discussion group will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Booth, 41 Millstream Road, Wednesday evening at 8. Mrs. Sydney Taylor was social hostess for the evening.

Capt. and Mrs. George Newell have returned to Victoria after an extensive holiday trip abroad, and are staying at Lord Tweedsmuir Apartments.

Miss Rosebell Tucker was honored when her associates of the Accounts Branch, Department of Public Works, Parliament Buildings, presented her with an attractive table lamp of American china, the base in picturesque Victorian mode, on the occasion of her forthcoming marriage.

Following a service of preparation conducted by Dean G. R. Calvert in Christ Church Cathedral Thursday afternoon, an informal tea for about 30 members of the executive board was held at the Deanery by Dean and Mrs. Calvert, to honor Miss Constance Williston, who arrived in the city Wednesday. The honor guest, Dominion supervisor of girls' work for Church of England in Canada, was introduced to the guests and gave a brief address.

Hallowe'en was celebrated early by members of Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, when they gathered at the home of Miss Isobel Raper, Cedar Hill Road, Wednesday evening. "Hard Times," was the theme of the party, and the girls enjoyed a variety of games. Refreshments were served by the hostess to guests Misses Shirley Baker, Darlain Woodburn, June Dickenson, Joyce McCuaig, Hilda Bates, Barbara Kito, Betty Lawrie, Clarysse Cautcut and Mesdames Joan Skipper, Dorothy Gower, and Inez Atkinson of Sigma Chapter, Prince George.

Club Sirocco will be the setting this evening for the "Varsity Trek" to be held by University of British Columbia Alumni Association, Victoria Branch. The dance is a revival of prewar Varsity Balls, commemorating this year, the march of the 1922 students to the site of the Cairn. Among those present will be Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of the university. Prior to the dance, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ozard will entertain 25 friends at their home, 318 Irving Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McWilliams, Cook Street, will also be hosts to friends.

Popular November bride-elect, Miss Claire Pottinger, was feted last evening when members of Brown's Victoria Nurseries entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. H. Hutchinson, 3011 Quadra Street. The honor guest and her mother, Mrs. H. Pottinger, were presented with rosebud corsage bouquets. Gifts were concealed in a miniature of the battleship H.M.C.S. Antigonish, in compliment to the groom-elect, at present aboard the ship. A Scotch lace cloth covered the tea table, and bright flowers formed a centre-piece. Others invited were Mesdames P. Hummer, G. Barker, J. Edwards, S. Sjöberg, R. Campbell, D. Campbell, D. Mawer, R. W. Mawer, H. Hutchison, Misses M. Smith, I. Sjöberg, J. Gilhen, C. Krubinski, V. Pottinger, B. Pottinger, I. Gilhen and E. Gilhen.

Dr. Charlotte Whitton Says Woman Shortage In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Canada is face-to-face with a new and disturbing shortage—women.

That is the warning given to Toronto nurses yesterday by Dr. Charlotte Whitton, one of the Dominion's foremost welfare experts.

"What is becoming increasingly and disturbingly evident is that there are simply not enough girls and young women in Canada to go round," said Dr. Whitton in an address before the University of Toronto School of Nursing.

Dr. Whitton suggested that the nursing profession should make a thorough "job analysis of nursing, present and future." The profession, faced with a shortage of some 7,000 nurses, should try and decide if it would be possible to reallocate "some of the duties, traditionally assumed by the all-round nurse in hospital, clinic and home."

The "nursing gap" appeared to be showing "less promise of closing than the dollar gap," and was not confined to Canada alone.

"The United Kingdom needs 125,000 nurses and is 45,000 short; the United States, with 318,000 nurses, still has 33,000 hospital beds closed due to the shortage."

In Canada, said Dr. Whitton, "Ontario is best served in nurses of all the provinces yet, excluding public health, private duty and industrial nursing, the last reports indicated a shortage of over 1,000 graduate nurses, and over 400 other nursing personnel."

"Canada's nursing force, at the present time, is about 31,000 active nurses on the registers, with another 7,200 still registered but not active. There are 13,273 student nurses in the hospitals and 10,000 auxiliary nursing personnel. With the target of one nurse for 280 of the population, Canada would need 15,000 more nurses in the next 10 years."

The goat was the earliest known domesticated animal, traced to the Iron Age. Wherever people traveled, the goat went along giving food (milk and cheese), clearing land (eating greens), providing companions for children, and supplying skin for clothing and meat.

A quarter cup of grated cheese and 3-4 cup sliced ripe olives combined with the other ingredients for scalloped potatoes give them a wonderful new flavor. It's perfect for serving with meat loaf.

Girls Still Tops At Keeping House

MONTREAL (CP)—The protests of young bachelors to the contrary, girls are tidier than boys—so says Mrs. J. C. Grant of McGill University.

The habits of boys and girls living away from home at university are well known to Mrs. Grant, who supervises the McGill rooms registry, finding accommodation for out-of-town students in crowded Montreal.

"The girls are apt to be more tidy than boys," she says, "making their own beds and cleaning up after themselves if they have kitchen privileges."

But, says Mrs. Grant, girls are a headache when it comes to placing them in rooms. They're fussier and require more privileges.

Students come to Mrs. Grant, seeking rooms and apartments, from all parts of the world—South Africa, India, England and the United States.

"The dream of every student is to get a room a stone's throw away from college," says Mrs. Grant. As far as price is concerned, they consider between $5 and $8 reasonable for a room. However, there are a few registered at $10 and $12.

In Step With Style

Cloudy skies or drizzling rain is no excuse to go about looking dull and bedraggled!

For featured in Victoria shops this season are rain or "shower" coats in sturdy twills, gabardines and satins, that could serve double duty for a fall casual as well as the original purpose—protection from raindrops.

This season raincoats are well-fashioned, many on tailored lines, and are shown in a variety of attractive shades.

A perennial favorite which has achieved added importance in this city is the navy blue trench coat, trimly tailored with epaulettes effect on the straight shoulder lines, neatly belted waist giving a slender line, and high buttoned pointed collar.

A diversion from the regular straight model is the double-breasted coat with smart array of buttons, and overlap fastened high to one side.

Smart with these double-duty coats are snap-brimmed fedora-like hats in matching materials and colors.

Water-resistant satin shower coats, many with removable hoods, repeat fashion highlights seen this fall in the most expensive topcoat—deepest sleeves gathered snugly at the wrists, row on row of button trims, fancy pockets, full swirling skirts.

Fleece-lined Boots — An English import makes its debut here for the rainy season, in the form of a fleece-lined gumboot, for protection from cold as well as dampness. They are shown in black, brown, red and white.

For dress wear, the best bet is still the small toe-rubber, which can be wrapped and tucked away in a hand-bag when not in use.

The young businesswomen and college girls have shown preference for white, red, or black gumboots which protect the legs as well as the feet. And always popular are overshoes, either plain or fur-trimmed.

Telescopic — In every bright hue imaginable are the neat and easily carried telescopic umbrellas. A gay flapping touch to any cloudy-weather ensemble, they can be folded away neatly when not in use.

Bright Scarves — While many of the younger set with their new short hair-styles are partial to the attractive headhugging hats, come cloudy skies, they revert to colorful head scarves, to keep curls and waves in place.

Born In Montreal, Woman In Bermuda Turns Politician

PAGET, Bermuda (AP) — When the surreys and the 10-horsepower taxis get into a traffic snarl in Bermuda, the gal who has to straighten them out is Montreal-born Mrs. Edna Watson.

One of two women members of Bermuda's parliament, Mrs. Watson is a blond, blonde woman of genteel manner, who looks as if her proper background would be an English garden party.

Actually, she manages to run much of Bermuda's government business, conducts a successful group of guest houses, runs a farm and in her spare time works as a physiotherapist at the local military hospital.

At her stately home, Scarrington Lodge, she is every inch the hostess, intent upon her guest's comfort. In parliament, she is considered a political power to be reckoned with. Discussing her surprising and recent political career over fragile coffee cups and old silver at her home here, she said:

"I never had considered going into politics. The nice Bermuda men always have considered woman's place was in the home. 'We have had women's suffrage here only since 1944, you know. The 1948 elections were the first time a woman could run for office. The thing all came up very suddenly. I was asked one Thursday to stand for parliament. The next Thursday I was in.'"

Mrs. Watson made no speeches, did no campaigning. Instead, she took an advertisement in the local newspaper to publish her platform, which included: Old age pensions, courses in hotel training in the local schools and social security. She said:

"This was an unheard-of method of seeking public office, but apparently it worked. Anyway, I was 'elected.'"

HOLDS CABINET STATUS. Now she is chairman of the transport control board and the social welfare board, two of the most important committee posts in the Bermuda House of Assembly.

The problem of planning an adequate transport program for Bermuda, which until recently allowed no automobiles on the island, keeps her busy most of the day. Some of the old residents want to go back to the horse and buggy days. Others

Ceremony Is Silent When King Marries

LONDON (CP)—Not a word will be spoken or vows exchanged when the young King Phumiphon of Thailand, marries his 17-year-old schoolgirl sweetheart, Princess Sirikit, at Bangkok early next year.

According to Buddhist law, the civil ceremony is merely the signing of a register. But the celebrations to follow in the royal Barompin Palace will be on a lavish scale.

The dark-haired, vivacious and attractive bride is the daughter of Thailand's ambassador in London—Princess Kitiyakara. Her name, Sirikit means "goodness."

She will wear a colorful patterned Siamese sarong—woven with real gold. Jewels and flowers will be twined in her hair.

Thailand is a country of contrasts. It scintillates with gold-roofed temples and jeweled Buddhas. Cutting through the narrow lanes of old Bangkok city are wide concrete roads. Residential suburbs now cover what until a few years ago were rice fields.

It will be a strange country to the young couple. The princess has spent much of her life in the United States and at school in Paris and Switzerland.

The king, who was born in Boston, has been only twice to Thailand. He last went there for the cremation rites for his young brother, 20-year-old King Ananda, who was found shot in his palace home at Bangkok.

Today's Recipe

GRAPE CHIFFON PIE

Five cups blue grapes, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon gelatine, ½ cup cold water, ¼ cup whipping cream, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1 nine-inch baked pie shell.

Wash grapes and separate skins and pulp. Heat pulp to boiling point and boil gently for five minutes. Rub through a sieve to remove seeds. Combine pulp and skins and cook together five minutes longer. Add sugar, stirring until dissolved. Meanwhile, soak gelatine in the cold water for five minutes. Add soaked gelatine to hot grape mixture, stirring until thoroughly dissolved. Chill until mixture is thick and syrupy.

Whip cream and fold into grape mixture. Make a meringue of the egg whites, salt and the ¼ cup sugar and fold into grape mixture. Pour into baked pie shell and chill until set. Yield: one nine-inch pie.

Granny's Needlework Still Takes Prizes

AYLMER, Que. (CP)—A 94-year-old woman is blazing the championship trail for a family of needlework and embroidery artists.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Moussette of Aylmer has been winning prizes at the local fair for her handiwork through 40 of the 75 years she has been threading a needle.

This year she won 15 first prizes. Three granddaughters she taught also were prize-winners. She admits to wearing glasses occasionally, but only for reading.

Apart from her needlework,

FIND THE SOAP

If there's a new infant in the family, keep a bar of soap near baby's corner. The soap makes a handy pin-cushion. If you form the habit of jabbing all dished pins directly into the soap after use there's never a question of just where missing pins are.

Mrs. Moussette has also won prizes for her pickles and canned fruits.

She is the daughter of the late James Mulligan, former mayor of Aylmer, and she has lived here all her life. A brother, the late George Mulligan, also sat in the chief magistrate's chair.

DON'T UPSET HAPPY, SATISFIED PLAY PRACTICES

The ways of children are often past comprehension for the parents. They have long since forgotten how they played or what happened in their early childhood. The scars of their experiences have been healed.

It isn't surprising then that Mrs. F. L. M. is concerned about some of the play practices of her child's group. She resents and wants to change them.

"My daughter, who is past six," she writes, "plays with a group of children from five to nine years of age. They always seem to be forming little clubs with one or two children acting as bosses and then refusing the privilege of membership to one or another of the group."

"The excluded children take food, or something else, and 'buy' their way into the club."

"Is this common practice among children? Should I refuse to allow my child to do this? Or, should I ignore it?"

"I don't know whether to tell my daughter to come home when this happens or to have her ask the mother in whose yard they are playing to see that all the children are included. I have always seen to this when the children played at our house. Do you think I am right to require this?"

I think you are managing your child's social affairs when she is old enough to do this for herself. If she is happy buying her way into the group from which, otherwise, she would be excluded, why make her unhappy by telling her this is wrong to do? You only make her more self-conscious about her exclusion. These children have discovered a way of getting extra food and treats and so long as the very same children are not always bosses, or always excluded, there seems little harm in the practice.

The big point is: How do the children feel? If they are satisfied you should be. If you do anything, it would be better to talk to the parents and let each of them, in turn, talk to the children to make sure no one child was always made the victim of the group.

My advice would be to ignore this and let your child manage her relationships with these children in any way that is successful. That's really what happens to all of us.

Our leaflet No. 57, "Children's Quarrels," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

SUGGESTION OF THE CHEF

To give plain hominy a nice meaty taste, boil it in soup stock, or water and bouillon cubes, instead of using plain water.

When the Moors invaded Spain in the eighth century, they taught the conquered peoples, and eventually all Europe, the art of preserving, dyeing and beautifying kidekin.

The first American kid tanner was Francis Ingalls, who arrived on the ship Confidence in 1623. He sunk vats beside his cottage in Lynn, Massachusetts, and there tanned the skins of goats in exchange for food-stuff and clothing.

Alberni Planning To Build Arena

PORT ALBERNI—A citizens' committee appointed by Mayor Loran Jordan has voted unanimously in favor of construction of an arena for the Alberni Valley and ways to undertake the project are being discussed.

Dr. W. E. Alexander has been named chairman of a subcommittee to gather data and figures to submit to the committee in the near future.

The committee was addressed by Pete Maffeo, Nanaimo, who was one of the originators of the Nanaimo arena. He said the arena in his hometown was sold to the public on a youth building plan.

Tried To Pass Bill Marked Counterfeit

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man who attempted to pass a bogus $10—marked "counterfeit" on both sides—Thursday was sentenced to four months for uttering a forgery. The man, Edson Clarke, 25, was arrested when he attempted to pass the note in payment for a game of pool.

Hallowe'en Bonfires, Parties Set

Those broomstick witches will be riding the skies over Greater Victoria schools Monday with Hallowe'en activities concentrated there.

At least two big outdoor parties are planned, though, with bonfires, treats and tricks. But the bulk of the children will be having their fun indoors, away from temptation of easily-removed gates, rickety fences, unanchored garbage cans and all the other things on which open season was declared at this time of the year by the youngsters of yesterday.

A little of this type of "sport" is expected, but serious vandalism has been lacking on hallowed eves of recent years and police of the area plan to keep it this way.

WINDOW SOAPING

There will be the usual window soaping and door-to-door canvassing for hand-outs, no doubt, most of it after the school parties.

In the city, seven district parent-teacher associations have received grants from the parks department to help pay for parties they are sponsoring.

The bonfire parties are scheduled in Oak Bay and Victoria West. Dozens of house parties are being arranged in all districts.

SCHOOL PARTIES

The city school affairs are arranged as follows:

Burnside at 7 in the evening, moving pictures, refreshments; Margaret Jenkins, for primary grades in afternoon and higher grades in evening, fancy-dress contests, entertainment;

North Ward, evening party with moving pictures, treats; Quadra Primary, afternoon party, dress-up;

Oaklands, primary grades party in afternoon, and older groups in evening, refreshments, entertainment, prizes; Quadra, fancy dress evening party with entertainment, hand-outs; George Jay, afternoon, costumes, prizes.

Similar parties are being arranged in many of the schools outside of the city. There will be two parties at Lamson Street School in Esquimalt, one in the afternoon and another in the evening. Monterey School in Oak Bay will have an evening affair.

BLOCK PARTIES

Block parties are being arranged in several areas, Oak Bay particularly, where children of one small district will be entertained at the home of one of them. James Bay P.T.A. is planning 20 or more home parties for the youngsters, too. So is the Sir James Douglas Association.

The Oak Bay bonfire is being arranged by the Kiwanis Club of the municipality in co-operation with the fire department. It will be held in a field next to the fire hall.

The Victoria West bonfire, arranged by the community club and the P.T.A., will be held at Banfield Park. There will be entertainment, prizes for costumes and refreshments.

Pilot Terrorized Crowd By Dives, Then Shot Himself

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—A 23-year-old pilot terrorized Clearwater residents for two hours Thursday with wild power dives in a stolen plane, then calmly landed and shot himself to death.

Police Chief George McClamma identified the youth as Samuel W. Watkins, member of a well-known Virginia family. Magistrate R. L. Baker pronounced the death a suicide.

Saleswoman Holds Good Taste Ticket

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP)—A third Canadian with a ticket on good taste in Wednesday's Cambridge handicap turned up Thursday in this upper Ottawa valley town.

She is Mrs. Margaret Kearns, a saleswoman in a clothing shop, who stands to collect $31,000 in Irish Sweepstakes money due to the second-place showing of the horse.

Other Canadians holding $31,000 tickets on Good Taste are W. E. Brain, inspector for a Toronto rubber company, and Harold Blackmore of London, Ont., a telephone company clerk.

Breakwater Plans Receive Setback

DUNCAN—The proposed breakwater at Cowichan Bay will not be built for some time.

Chamber of Commerce has been notified by the Department of Transport that the project has been placed on the deferred list. The government letter said construction would be undertaken when an urgent need arose to provide employment through public works.

Constitution Amendment Resolution Passed By Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—In a historic move, the Commons Thursday adopted a resolution seeking for Parliament the power to amend the constitution on matters under federal jurisdiction.

By a vote of 133 to 38, members approved an address to the United Kingdom Parliament which now has the power to make amendments to the Canadian constitution. A similar resolution must be passed by the Senate before the legislation will be sent to the United Kingdom Parliament.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members fought to the last to have passage of the resolution delayed to permit consultation with the provinces and further study by the public.

Two Independents, P. E. Gagnon (Chicoutimi, Que.) and R. Poulin (Beauce, Que.) joined the Progressive Conservatives and Social Crediters in voting against the resolution.

The C.C.F. and Raymond Broun (Ind. Lib.-Prescott, Ont.) voted with the government.

The vote was taken after Prime Minister St. Laurent had defended the government's method of procedure in a speech that brought him one of the lengthiest ovations he has received this session. Applause lasted about three minutes.

He said he believed a majority of the Canadian people support the way the government is obtaining for Parliament the power to amend the constitution. Everyone agreed the power should be in the hands of Canadians, but opposition members were saying there should be prior consultation with the provinces.

The Liberal Party did not subscribe to the doctrine that the provinces should be consulted on constitutional changes involving matters within federal jurisdiction. He felt it would be a very grave error to give control over federal matters to men elected to provincial legislatures.

A Dominion-provincial conference would be held, he said, but it would deal only with ways of amending the constitution on matters outside complete federal jurisdiction.

The Progressive Conservative spokesmen agreed Canada should have the power to amend the constitution, but they held the provinces should be consulted on procedure.

Hunter Meets Fate He Dealt Another

HOQUIAM, Wash. (AP)—Almost a year to the day after he had killed a relative in a similar hunting accident, a Hoquiam man was shot and killed in a hunting mishap near here Thursday. His own son accidentally fired the fatal shot.

The victim was Nelson W. McKinney, 53. Sheriff Mike Kilgore said the elder McKinney was accidentally shot by his son, John R. McKinney, 19.

McKinney had been unable to obtain a license since the accidental shooting of his brother-in-law, Bill Edward Mullins, 36, of Centralia, Wash., Oct. 24, 1948, on a hunting trip. He was convicted of manslaughter and received a suspended sentence.

Sooke Games Night, Concert Popular; Many Outsiders

SOOKE—The annual concert and game night, sponsored by the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute, was a great success.

There were many visitors from Victoria and other island points. Booths were arranged for various sales and games.

Games of skill and chance enjoyed were in charge of: George Duncan Jr., Richard Cains, Wilfred Strong, James Martin, Gordon Nixon, Rex Kendrew and Joseph Westad.

Joseph Collins won an electric tea kettle; Mrs. Manzer Robertson, a chicken dinner; and Mrs. M. Mahin won a water-color painting by Jack Laing of Sooke.

The affair opened with a concert and Mrs. Walter Conder, president, welcomed visitors.

Little Eric Walker of Muir

Creek won a children's whistling contest. Eloise Nixon, Sooke, was second, and Ronald Fedosenko, Sooke, third.

Mrs. F. Kennedy of Otter Point and Ronald Walker of Muir Creek sang vocal solos. D. J. De Rochie gave a humorous ballet dance. In an encore number he was assisted by Edward Eve.

Miss Beverly Arnet and Edgar Arnet gave a tap dance. Accompanists were Mrs. Joseph Westad and Mrs. B. Arnet.

Miss Josephine Rudd of Milne's Landing played piano solos. Miss Rudd also played a group of popular orchestral selections with Mr. Rudd, coronet, Samuel Fedosenko, guitar, and A. James, drums.

Ralph Pontious was master of ceremonies.

The concert concluded with a play entitled "The Ladies of the Map," in which parts were played by Mrs. Conder who aspired to be a great actress; Mrs. Westad, who desired fame as a pianist; Mrs. Gordon Nixon, who had dancing as her goal, and Mrs. G. A. Acreman, who aimed at a singing career.

Czechs Create New Type Of Detective In Movie

By NATE POLOWETZKY
PRAGUE (AP)—In a people's democracy "Whodunit" the old time, hardboiled, plodding, question-asking detective is as obsolete as a millionaire behind the Iron Curtain.

Now, it's the social-conscious cop armed to the teeth with Marx and Lenin who gets his man.

A murderer doesn't stand a chance against this combination.

The new type detective is brought to his peak in the latest Czech murder movie, called "Tonight at Half Past Ten," produced by the Czechoslovak State Film Corporation.

"This feature is a new type of crime film. A murder has been committed, but in sharp contrast to the general run of murder films in which crime has always a sensational aspect—being committed for reasons of love or hate—this film is about a murder committed for economic reasons. The film shows that crimes result from given social and economic conditions.

"The action takes place in Brno. The time is placed a few years ago. Beranek, an architect's assistant, comes across evidence of fraudulent dealings concerned with a municipal housing scheme. Inferior material is being supplied and unnecessary bottlenecks are being created."

Well, in a little while Beranek is a corpse.

Two detectives, Zouplina, the old-fashioned cop, and Simak, the new product, are called in to solve the killing.

There are the usual number of suspects—and a bit of romance to enliven the plot.

FROM BLACK MARKET

It seems this is a tough murder to crack. As the movie blurb puts it:

"Zouplina insists on following the traditional lines of exploration: unrequited love, jealousy, madness, etc. The young Simak, who has specialized in investigating black market crimes, concentrates on the social and economic background of the crime."

"Detective Zouplina finds his old methods and ideas fail him. Simak gets on the right track, and eventually finds and arrests the murderer."

There is a happy ending, too. "Other people involved in the housing deal are put under arrest—and the municipal plan goes ahead."

WEATHER WOLVES

Wolves in London's Regent's Park Zoo have a reputation as weather forecasters. They break out in a frenzied pandemonium of howls about 12 hours before periods of wet weather.

11 Fishermen Fined

CHEMAINUS (CP)—Eleven men were fined a total of $1,100 in police court here for infraction of fishing regulations.

Capt. Mike Milan of a J. H. Todd Co. seiner was fined $350 for fishing outside legal boundaries. The five members of his crew were fined $50 each.

Fined for fishing without a license were Gerald Miller and William Sikich, $25 each, and Roy Silvey $350 and costs. Two members of Silvey's crew were fined $50 each.

Owners and crews of two other boats will appear on similar charges here tomorrow.

Savings Bonds Sales Proof Of Canada's Economic Strength

OTTAWA (CP)—Proof of Canada's economic boom is in the spectacular increase in Canada savings bond sales, says Donald Gordon, the Bank of Canada's deputy governor.

Pleasantly surprised by the bonds' popularity, the banking and economic expert—soon to take on the job as president of the Canadian National Railways—says the sales could be entitled "the success story of the year."

Sales during the first week of the campaign, which opened Oct. 17, climbed to $85,543,850—more than double the $39,688,800 in the first week of the 1948 campaign.

Payroll applications shot up to $59,097,350, a big climb over the $27,868,950 sold through the payroll instalment plan in the first week last year.

Bank officials believe that if the current trend continues, Canada this year will top the $260,000,000 worth of bonds sold last year by an additional $40,000,000.

Hudson Bay Route Exports Way Down

SASKATOON (CP)—The port of Churchill, potentially a 25,000,000-bushel-a-year breadbasket for the United Kingdom and Europe, is being hamstrung by railroad difficulties and the federal trade department, Frank Eliason, secretary of the Hudson Bay Route Association, said Thursday night.

Recently returned from the official closing of the northern port's 66-day season, Mr. Eliason said cargo handlings were "infinitely smaller" than its capacity.

Sixteen ships loaded 5,500,000 bushels of wheat. He estimated the port's handling capacity at 25,000,000, and said 16,000,000 is the minimum yearly shipment on which it can operate.

Mr. Eliason, a long-time advocate of the northern route to world markets, blamed the Canadian Wheat Board and the Hudson Bay Railway for the poor showing.

The U.K., he said, should "get wise" to the fact it can save up to $2,250,000 yearly by taking delivery from Churchill instead of Fort William or Vancouver. Churchill shipments are 9 cents a bushel cheaper, he said.

Imports from the U.K. were cheaper too as evidenced by the $100 price difference between a tractor delivered at Calgary through Churchill and Montreal.

Canadian Book Week

Canadian Book Week will be observed throughout Canada, starting Oct. 29.

Displays of Canadian books will be featured in local libraries and stores and a radio broadcast will bring to listeners facts concerning some of the many interesting books written by Canadians which are obtainable for personal reading or as Christmas gifts.

Speakers will be Mrs. Claire Yardley, president of the Victoria and Islands Branch, Canadian Authors' Association, and Mr. Henry Wakefield-Maunsell, second vice-president.

Broadcast will be Saturday 6:45 p.m.

Navy Man Misquoted On Missile Report

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)—Cmdr. John S. McCain Thursday denied having said a submarine-launched guided missile could carry an atomic bomb. The Associated Press quoted him Wednesday to that effect in a story on U.S. navy plans to launch 15,000-pound "loot" missiles from two submarines off Hawaii Nov. 7.

Changes Plea In Assault Case

Case of William Hanley, Churchill Hotel, charged with common assault against Katherine Hanley on Oct. 25, was remanded to next Thursday by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court Thursday afternoon. Magistrate Hall allowed accused to change his earlier plea of guilty to one of not guilty. Hanley has secured counsel. Bail was set at $250 in one surety.

Wenatchee Purchases Ball Club

BREMERTON (AP)—Directors of the Bremerton Baseball Club Inc., formally approved Thursday night sale of the club's Western International League franchise to Wenatchee, subject to league approval. The announcement was made by Alan Strange, general manager.

The purchase sum was not disclosed. Strange said the transfer also includes the contracts of 11 ball players. They are: Don Stanford, 3b; Charlie Bushong, 2b; Lou Briganti, ss; Jay Ragni, 1b; Len Neal, c; and pitchers Joe Sullivan, Duke Baldwin, Bob Pirack, Vern Kahout, Glen Halstead and Alton Lee.

Two other members of the Bremerton club, pitcher John Marshall and catcher Al Rorring, were disposed of before the franchise sale to the Victoria Athletics of the W.I.L. The transfer was the second of the year for the class B circuit. League directors approved last week the transfer of the Wenatchee franchise to the Tri-Cities area of Richland, Kennewick and Pasco.

Canine Blue Bloods In Local Show

Cerdan's Death Terrific Shock To His Many Ring Fans In U.S.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP)—Marcel Cerdan, idol of France and former world middle-weight champion, was so tremendously popular in the United States that the news of his being on a crashed airliner today shocked deeply men of the boxing game.

The stocky, black-haired, handsome Frenchman from Casablanca, Morocco, reflected "class" in the ring and outside it.

As a fighter, he was a great all-round combination boxer-puncher. In meeting the public, he had always been polite, gracious to all, and ever-ready with a flashing smile that revealed a few gold teeth on his early trips to the United States. Later, the gold was replaced by white porcelain, but the smile remained the same.

Boxing men recalled that Cerdan had erroneously been reported killed in an airplane crash in 1947. A Casablanca-to-Paris plane on which he had a reservation crashed in France. Fortunately, at the last minute, Marcel had decided to take a later plane. At that time he was starting his second trip to the United States to fight Harold Green of Brooklyn.

In his last fight, at Detroit on June 16, he won acclaim for his gameness after he had tried for nine rounds to defend his middle-weight crown, despite agony from a shoulder that was injured in the first round.

TOSSED IN TOWEL

Marcel lost the 160-pound title that misty night in Detroit to Jake Lamotta, the "Bronx bull," on a technical knockout because his handlers refused to let him answer the bell for the 10th round.

One of the men in his corner that night was Jo Longman of Paris—a French underground hero of the last World War. Longman, Cerdan's manager, was with him today on the plane.

The Detroit bout was the last of six United States fights in which 33-year-old Cerdan had been a participant. His greatest triumph was achieved on Sept. 21, 1948, when he wrestled the world crown from veteran Tony Zale on a 12th round knockout at Jersey City. He was making his first defense when he encountered Lamotta at Detroit.

When Cerdan and Lamotta signed for the Detroit bout, Lamotta contracted to give Marcel a return shot at the title in case he took the crown from Cerdan.

The International Boxing Club arranged for their return fight, to be held at the New York Polo Grounds last Sept. 26; but the bout was postponed because Lamotta suffered an injured shoulder while training. Cerdan flew back to his home in Casablanca to spend a few weeks with his wife and three sons while waiting for the bout to be rescheduled. Last week Lamotta came to terms for the bout to be shifted to Madison Square Garden on Dec. 2. Then Cerdan flew from Casablanca to Paris to meet manager Longman, and both took off for New York last

Fletcher's, Navy Senior B Cage Winners At Naden

Navy and Fletcher's scored victories in the Men's Senior B Basketball League last night as the Victoria and District Association moved to the H.M.C.S. Naden floor for the first time.

The sailors took a 31 to 23 verdict from Chinese Students in a game that was close all the way.

Fletcher's handed West Heat its second setback in as many nights by downing the fuelmen, 37 to 25. Jimmy John, the long-range sniper of the Students, paced the losers as they battled the sailors to a 15 to 13 halftime deficit.

Norm Haskell was high man for the Navy quintette with nine.

SHORTHANDED

West Heat, using only five men, found second-half chores too tough against the clothiers and after being only two points down at the half, wilted in the final 20 minutes.

Scoring honors were divided between Wylie and Gordie Bamford of Fletcher's and Stewart of West Heat, each netting nine points.

Teams and scorers follow:
Fletcher's—Ferry 4, Hartley, Wylie 9, Bamford 8, McCorkill 4, Gelsner 7, Louie 6.
West Heat—Stewart 4, Beasley, LeQueux 7, Anderson 4, Hobbs 4.
Navy—James 2, Burck 6, Shelton 3, Haskell 9, Soar 3, Zebbs 4, Brown 2.
Chinese Students—Peng 3, W. Derr, T. Derr 3, John 15, Mar 2, Lee, Chow, Wong, Sam.

Curlers Plan Open Meeting Wednesday

Victoria Curling Club will hold an open meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Building Wednesday night at 8.

All persons interested in curling and the establishment of a curling rink in Victoria have been issued an invitation to attend.

The city curling club, which was recently organized, plans to erect a $30,000 rink here.

Cougars Face Heavy Schedule Club Strengthened For Portland Visit

The Pacific Coast Hockey League schedule catches up with Victoria Cougars starting with tonight's game against the Portland Penguins at the Memorial Arena at 8:30.

For this—the Penguins' second visit here this season—marks the beginning of a rugged schedule of games for the local club, in which the team will play five games in six nights and seven games in nine nights.

Following tonight's home appearance, the Cougars take to the road meeting the Penguins at Portland, Saturday; the Ironmen at Seattle Sunday; Canucks at Vancouver, Tuesday and Royals at New Westminster Wednesday.

The Cougars enjoy an off day Thursday, returning home to play the Tacoma Rockets on Nov. 4 and the Vancouver Canucks, the following night, Nov. 5. The latter date marks the first Saturday night home game for the club.

If the club can get through this grind with better than an even break, it will be a job well done.

PENGUINS IMPROVED

Portland is a much improved club over the one that opened the P.C.H.L. season here and suffered a 4 to 1 setback at the hands of the Victoria sextette. Though only twice winners in nine starts, the Penguins in their last game gave Seattle's league-leading Ironmen a terrific scare before bowing out 7 to 6.

The Penguins will show two new players to Victoria fans in Hermie Gruhn, a left winger, formerly with Vancouver, and Sandy Milne, a defenceman.

COUGARS REINFORCED

Two newcomers will also grace the Cougars line-up tonight. They are Bob West, a centre, from Oakland, who comes to the club on a 15-day trial basis, and Russ Kopak, also a centre.

Kopak was recently released by Seattle and joins the Cougars as a free agent.

He is 25 years of age, five feet 10 inches in height, weighs 160 pounds and shoots from the left side.

Kopak played with the Boston Olympics most of the 1943-44 season joining the Boston Bruins for 24 games near the end of the season. Out of hockey the following season, Kopak then joined Fort Worth of the U.S. H.L. where he played for three years. Last season he divided his time between Fort Worth and Houston.

Saddler Starts Campaign To Win Lightweight Title

NEW YORK (UP)—Despairing of a return shot at the featherweight crown, ex-champion Sandy Saddler will begin gunning for the lightweight title tonight in a 10-round bout with Paddy DeMarch, the Brooklyn "Billogat," at Madison Square Garden.

Saddler—a broad-shouldered, skinnily-legged Harlem negro—was favored at 3 to 1 despite DeMarch's rough-house tactics and his butting proficiency.

Willie Pop, captured the feather crown from Saddler last Feb. 11 at the Garden. Since then, so many promoters have failed in their negotiations for a rematch that Sandy and manager Charlie Johnston have given up hope of getting the shot.

Lightweight DeMarch won eight of nine bouts this year. He has beaten such good boys as Billy Graham and tough Terry Young.

Tonight's fight show will be the first staged at the Garden in more than a month. The

Woodcock Doesn't Want Any Part Of Canadians

LONDON (CP)—Bruce Woodcock, empire heavyweight boxing champion, doesn't want to accept any challenges for his crown until after his "world title" bout against Lee Savold here next spring.

But Harry Levene, fire-breathing fight manager, refuses to take no for an answer. Levene has posted two challenges to Woodcock's throne on behalf of two Toronto negro fighters—Earl Walls, 21-year-old fighter with a strain of Cherokee blood in his veins, and Verne Escoc, national champion with plenty of experience in United States rings.

Leven has offered $1,000 ($3,100) even-money wager on behalf of Escoc and $1,000-$500 bet to back Walls.

Woodcock and his manager, Tom Hurst, just aren't interested. With an eye on bigger money they say the Empire heavyweight champ will not fight until the Savold contest—"then we shall be prepared to receive offers."

That sort of talk makes Levene hopping mad. He says "it doesn't matter whether Hurst and Woodcock are interested or not."

"I will force Woodcock to meet one of my boys, or I will ask the British Boxing Board of Control to void his title. The rules only allow a champion six months between title defenses. He has had four months now since he beat Freddy Mills. He's got to quit making excuses and fight or lose the title."

(Woodcock's European title was recently voided on similar grounds.)

"Walls and Escoc are more than sensational," continued Harry.

Major Hockey Race Tighter Than Drum

The still-young National Hockey League race has tightened up. Things are getting rugged. The six clubs have just started biting into a 70-game schedule and already there's a miniature war for the lead—two teams are tied for first place and three more for second place—one point behind.

Last night, Detroit Red Wings moved into a first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens with a 3 to 1 victory over the winless Black Hawks at Chicago and Toronto.

Maple Leafs gave netminder Turk Broda his first shutout in five games by beating the Canadiens 2 to 0 at Montreal.

Victory for the Leafs gave them six points—with two victories and two ties—and a second place deadlock with the idle Boston Bruins and New York Rangers.

The situation may be unravelled Saturday when all six clubs meet the Leafs at Toronto, the Red Wings clash with the Canadiens at Montreal, and the Black Hawks will be gunning for their first victory in six starts when they meet the Rangers at New York.

At Chicago, 12,819 fans, one of the smallest crowds in several years, saw Detroit netminder Harry Lumley robbed of a shutout midway through the final period on a goal by Doug Bentley. Lumley had 29 saves to 25 for opposing goalie Frankie Brimsek.

Al Dewsbury, Gord Howe and Ted Lindsay scored for Detroit. At Montreal, Big Bill Durnan in the Montreal nets held up the whole Canadian team for 53 minutes before he gave way to the hard-pressing Leafs.

The break came at 18:13 of the last period after Ken Mosdell of Montreal drew a major penalty for high sticking. Bill Juzda and drawing blood.

Fleming Mackell blasted the puck past Durnan on a close-in shot when he picked up a loose disc well inside the Montreal blue line.

Still shorthanded, the Canadiens pulled Durnan and sent five forwards into the battle, but Harry Watson got the puck in his own defence area, skated over the blue line and sent a long shot into the empty Montreal cage.

TORONTO-MONTREAL

First Period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Reay, Barilko (3), Reardon (major), Harvey, Timmeren, Boesch.
Second Period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Boesch (2).
Third Period—Scoring: Mackell, 18:12; 2, Toronto; Watson, 19:49. Penalties: Juma, Harvey, Mosdell (major), Kennedy, Reardon.

DETROIT-CHICAGO

First Period—Scoring: None. Penalties: Gadsby, Pashenko.
Second Period—Scoring: Dewsbury (Reve), 1:36; 3, Detroit; Howe, 10:11. Penalties: Gadsby, Martin.
Third Period—Scoring: Lindsay (Abel), 2:24; 4, Chicago; Bentley (Mosdell), 8:30; 5, Detroit. Penalties: Gadsby, Black, Gaudin.

Ted Lindsay Holds Undisputed Lead In Hockey Scoring

Detroit's Ted Lindsay pushed ahead in the National Hockey League scoring race last night by adding another goal to his six-point total.

With four goals and three assists for seven points, he has a slight one-point edge over Paul Ronny of Boston who has amassed three goals and three assists.

Another point behind, in third place, are Fleming Mackell, Toronto; Metro Prystal, Chicago; Sid Smith, Toronto; Gordie Howe, Detroit; and John Peirson, Boston.

V.H.S. Athletes Face Busy Program; Lord Byng Coming

Victoria High School athletes are in for a busy time over the Remembrance Day holiday. Lord Byng High School of Vancouver will be here on Nov. 11 to provide strong opposition for the city institute's rep rugby and basketball squads.

Proceedings will begin on Nov. 10 at 7.30 in the Crystal Garden, where the annual interhouse swimming gala will be held. A total of 26 events will be on the card, including the inauguration of diving events.

Feature event of the evening will be the two 200-yard challenge relay races for senior boys and girls. Any other school in the Greater Victoria district may challenge Victoria High in these two events.

An added attraction will be a 15-minute tumbling display by Ed Kelter's Pro-Rec squad.

A full day's activities is listed on the holiday schedule with a junior rugby encounter slated to take place at Macdonald Park at 2 in the afternoon. Between halves a three-mile cross-country race will start from the James Bay enclosure, continuing up around Beacon Hill Park and returning to the starting point after the completion of the rugby match.

FEATURE RUGBY CLASH

The senior rugby tilt between Lord Byng and Victoria High will start at 3, and promises to be a thriller. Two years ago Lord Byng lost a close 3 to 0 decision to the city squad and the match-ends will likely go all out for the decision this year. Vic High is currently leading the Interhigh Senior Rugby League.

At 7.30, the Vic High Totems will entertain the Vancouverites in a senior basketball exhibition. It will be followed by a dance in the gym for last year's students of V.H.S. in addition to the present students.

On Lord Byng's last appearance here the squad was defeated by one point in the cage tilt. Adding color to the procedure will be the appearance of the Vic High cheer leaders and majorettes.

It was announced that Victoria High School has been invited to return to Vancouver shortly before Christmas to complete the home-and-home series.

Shotton To Hold Brooklyn Job; On Greater Spot For 1950 Race

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—After two weeks of breathless suspense in which to set the stage properly, president Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers will hold court Tuesday to announce that "lovable, kindly" Burt Shotton has been retained as manager for 1950.

Queried last week as to the grey-haired Shotton's status after the Dodgers had blown two world series chances under the 35-year-old pilot, Rickey hedged as only the Deacon can and asserted: "He will be up here within the next two weeks. I expect we will have an announcement then."

Tuesday is the day. Shotton will be on hand—and it would be too long a trip just to announce that he was stepping down. He'll stay, second only to Connie Mack as the oldest manager in baseball.

Which will make some people happy, and others not so jubilant. For Burt, the one-time laundry wagon driver who sometimes acts like he still was handling horses, is a man with two decided factions. You like him or you don't. There is no middle ground.

He can be caustic and crusty. He can also be nice. Too much of the time he gives you too much of the former. Too much of the time he gives you too little of the latter.

DIDN'T FOOL ANYBODY

series are typical. Burt flatly refused to announce his starting pitcher beforehand, a minor league attitude seldom resorted to by major league managers. Shotton's stand was that he might make his pitcher nervous. But he didn't fool anybody, neither his pitchers nor rival managers. It just made it tougher on those who had to work around him. When he finally did make his announcements, it was more likely to be to personal favorites instead of doing a job impartially.

But you have to admit that Shotton, who never hit 300 in 13 years as a major league outfielder, hit 1,000 as manager of the Dodgers. He had two full years at the helm—both times winning the National League pennant.

From 1928 through 1933, Shotton piloted the Phillies. The best he did was fourth in 1932, rather a minor miracle with the Phillies of that era. Then came a long term in the minors before he came back as a Cleveland coach in 1945 and the next season joined the Dodgers as a scout.

REPLACED 120

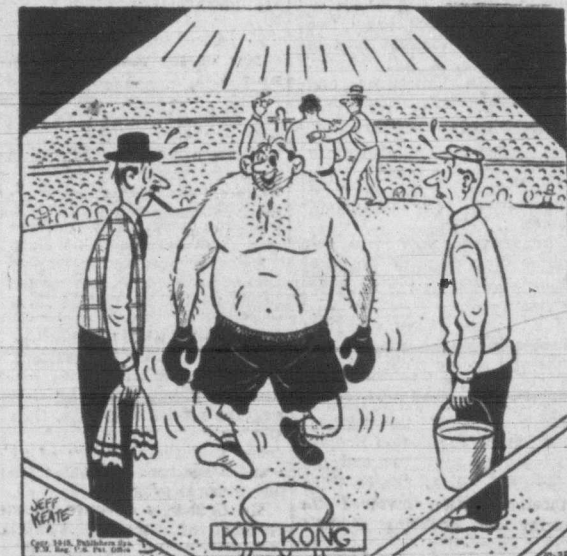

When Leo Durocher was suspended before the 1947 season opened, Rickey moved Shotton in as manager and he won the pennant. Durocher returned in 1948 but left to become manager of the Giants in July. The club was in fourth place and Shotton brought it home third after holding the lead briefly. But this year he brought the Brooks home on top.

He was on the spot, too. For Rickey had named this as "the best" Brooklyn team ever. Shotton and his stumbling Dodgers just about made it, being outstumbled by the Cards.

And the spot will be even larger for Shotton in 1950. For already Rickey has announced that he isn't worried about winning the pennant, a statement which must make the other seven National League clubs feel just fine. Rickey considers it in the bag and claims that his big problem is winning the series.

Victoria High School Reds moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Interhigh Junior Basketball League yesterday by trouncing Mount Douglas High, 62 to 13.

Other games saw Central Junior High upset the Vic High Golds, 32 to 29, in overtime; Oak Bay Greens wallopped their schoolmates, the Whites, 53 to 30, and Esquimalt nose out Mount View, 16 to 15.

The Reds had little trouble with Mount Douglas, building up a 32 to 4 halftime margin and coasting in the rest of the way. Len Anderson topped winners with 10 points.

In a close game at Central Junior High, the home team scored three points in the extra period while holding the Golds off the scoresheet to mark up their second straight win. Pete Zarry bucketed 19 points for a losing cause while Stan Stewart topped winners with 12.

IT COULDN'T HAVE BEEN SLOWERS
The University of Georgia publicity department gives full credit to a bottle of rubbing liniment for the speed with which half-back Billy Mixon scored the winning touchdown against Louisiana State. . . . Billy left the game with an injured shoulder and trainer Claude Bond Jr. saturated the injury with liniment. Some of the stuff rolled down Mixon's back onto the seat of his pants. Billy jumped to his feet, raced over to Wally Butts and shouted: "Put me in quick, coach. I'm ready." . . . And in just a couple of plays Mixon galloped across the goal line like a guy gone berserk.

Blue Bombers Launch Dominion Title Bid

EDMONTON (CP)—Vancouver Blue Bombers, Dominion junior football champions, launch their bid for a second crown here tonight when they meet the dark-horse Edmonton Maple Leafs in the western semifinals.

It will be the first of a two-game, total-point series. Second match will be played in Vancouver, Nov. 5. Winner of the series will meet the top dog of a similar series between Saskatoon Hilltops, Saskatchewan champs, and Winnipeg Westons, Manitoba titlists.

The coast city's grid products are rarely seen on the prairies while they still are juniors.

But with fourth-year quarterback Jack Patrick and fullback Keith Bonnett, a converted end, in the line-up, Bombers figure to snatch the offensive from Leafs. They also count on smart blocking from Chud Reid to protect Patrick's passes which usually are aimed at their outstanding receiver, Maury Carey.

Usually they turn up in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union after serving their apprenticeship on the coast.

UNBEATEN RECORD

A powerful squad, Bombers have not lost a game in five tries but Leafs, who upset Calgary Bronks for the Alberta title, think their passing attack is the weapon to break that string.

Because of the hefty Bomber front wall, averaging 192 pounds, the Leafs' master-minds decided that if they can stop Bombers on the ground, quarterback Bob Stocks' passing arm and a full measure of deception from the T formation, should give Leafs the edge.

Proposes Art Centres For Every Provincial Capital

Cultural art centres should be constructed and maintained out of public funds in each provincial capital, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce urged today in its brief to the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences at the afternoon session held in the Coalition Members' Room, Legislative Buildings.

While the chamber endorsed the proposal for the establishment of a national cultural centre in Ottawa, it pointed out comparatively few Canadian people would have the opportunity of taking advantage of such a centre and yet all would be contributing toward its upkeep.

"It should also be noted that one of the important functions of this centre is to acquaint visitors to Canada with Canadian history, culture, industry," stated the brief. "But many of the visitors do not make a complete tour of the country, but only visit one section, such as the Maritimes or the prairie province or British Columbia."

TO BENEFIT ALL CANADIANS
Walter S. Miles and Austin Curtis, speaking on behalf of the chamber, suggested that a main cultural centre in Ottawa circulate to branch centres established in every capital certain its exhibits, programs and films. Such a scheme would benefit all Canadians.

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council warned that unless something was done to turn the desires of youth toward cultural pursuits young Canadians would turn to less desirable forms of entertainment.

"We would urge the need of turning the impulse and desires of youth toward cultural pursuits was never so great as at this time," said the brief submitted by A. P. Raymond. "There are so many commercial agencies at work presenting the less desirable forms of literature and entertainment which are having an unfortunate effect on some of our young people."

Mr. Raymond pointed out there was no one solution to this problem. "But we believe that recognizing and fostering artistic talent, as athletic promise is recognized and encouraged, would help to counteract the contaminating influences to which our youth is exposed," he said.

The commission also heard W. W. Martin speak to a brief submitted by the School of Theatrical Arts.

On Saturday the commission will hear the proposals of the broadcasting station CJVI and the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria.

Victoria Teachers Get Degrees At Fall Congregation

Among Victorians who received degrees at the University of British Columbia's fall congregation Wednesday were eight teachers.

Receiving bachelor of education degrees were Charles Gibbard, vice-principal of Oak Bay High School; Joseph Barlow of the Esquimalt High School staff, and Stanley Murphy of Victoria High School.

Jack Chatfield, principal of Craigflower School; Thomas Curtis, principal of McKennie Avenue School; Walter Kitley, vice-principal of George Jay School; Wilfred Orchard, vice-principal of South Park School, and Donald Smith of Esquimalt Elementary School, all received bachelor of arts degrees.

PLENTY OF EXPERIENCE

The teachers all have plenty of experience in their profession. Mr. Gibbard has been at Oak Bay High School since 1926; Mr. Barlow, an R.C.A.F. veteran, started teaching in the Okanagan and attended summer school for six years; Mr. Murphy started in Chemainus 10 years ago, and is also an air force veteran; Mr. Chatfield, still another former R.C.A.F. man, has a 10-year record in B.C. schools; Mr. Kitley first taught at Hudson Hope 12 years ago; Mr. Orchard has been teaching for 20 years, and Mr. Smith 14 years.

Two-Day 'Mum Show' Opens In Oak Bay

With proceeds to go toward the many Kiwanis charities and objectives, the Oak Bay Amateur Chrysanthemum Society's annual indoor show will open today at the Oak Bay Municipal Hall.

Several hundred colorful exhibits of 'mums' will be on display from four in the afternoon till nine at night today and Saturday.

The show is being staged in conjunction with the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club.

A number of potted plants will be given lucky ticket holders each night. Saturday night a large selection of cut flowers will be auctioned off.

President of the society, Fred Richardson, termed the flowers as among the finest to be seen in Canada.

Pleading guilty to careless driving on Hillside Avenue at Higgins Street Oct. 26, Ronald H. Dempster, 509 Vancouver Street, was fined $40 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. He was in collision with a B.C. Electric pole. Dempster's license was suspended.

Commission Hears Delegates

Victoria session of the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences opened at the Coalition Members' Room, Legislative Building, this morning. Seated, left to right, Peter Wright, counsel; Father Georges-Henri Levesque, dean of the faculty of social sciences, Laval University; Miss Hilda Neaby, professor of history, University of Saskatchewan; Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman, chancellor of the University of Toronto, and Norman A. M. MacKenzie, University of British Columbia.

B.C. Government Going All-Out On Publicity For Road Opening

The B.C. government is going all-out on the publicity for the opening next Wednesday of the Hope-Princeton Highway. It is billing the road as "the largest modern highway project ever to be undertaken by the provincial government."

Under construction for three and a half years the Hope-Princeton Highway will provide the southern Okanagan Valley with its first direct highway link with the coast. The 83-mile-long highway link, cost $12,000,000, will be the rebuilding of the existing highway between Princeton and Kaledon.

To mark the opening of the highway the government is running full page advertisements in the daily newspapers of the province, issuing an attractive 24-page souvenir booklet, distributing windshield stickers for automobiles attending the opening and putting on the most elaborate show in history for the opening of a B.C. highway.

The opening ceremonies will be held at the Allison Pass summit of the highway, 4,400 feet up in the Cascade Mountains.

WEATHER PROBLEM

The big question mark is the weather which at this time of the year may include heavy frosts and blizzards at Allison Pass.

Nevertheless the government is expecting 2,000 persons to be present when Premier Byron Johnson cuts the ribbon across the highway. He will then dedicate the highway to the public use and declare it officially open.

Works Minister E. C. Carson and Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb are also scheduled to give addresses. The New Westminster Lions Boys' Band will be in attendance.

Injuries Suffered By 3 In Accident

Three of four occupants of a car which collided with a parked vehicle at Tolmie Avenue and Quadra Street were taken to Jubilee Hospital with injuries Thursday night.

Natalie McKenzie, 22, suffered a fractured right leg; Emmie Orzecheski, 23, a bruised forehead, and Richard D. McGaw, 37, Savannah Avenue, an injured shoulder.

Police said McGaw was the driver.

Uninjured was Albert Williams, 1043 Packington Avenue, a passenger. Police said McGaw was proceeding south on Quadra when the collision occurred with the parked car, owned by William Wylie, 1114 Johnson Street.

Elects Higher Court Trial

Electing for a trial in a higher court, Andrew Thomas, Victoria, was remanded to Nov. 3 for preliminary hearing on a charge of uttering a false cheque, when he appeared in city police court today. Thomas told Magistrate H. C. Hall he was not represented by counsel.

Gun Club Shoot

Victoria Gun Club members will resume their bids for trap and skeet trophies Sunday afternoon, starting at 12, at the Albert Head Road shooting grounds. All members and public generally are invited to attend and participate in the scattergun sport.

Says Commission Interested In B.C. Indian Art

Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman of the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences, said here today the commission was very much interested in the preservation of native art in British Columbia.

Mr. Massey made the remark when Mrs. A. J. Tullis submitted a brief to the commission on behalf of the Fraser Canyon Indian Arts and Crafts Society.

"We are very glad to hear proposals to promote Indian art and welfare," Mr. Massey said. "We received many practical suggestions at our Vancouver session."

Hans Gruber, conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, suggested to the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences sitting here today, government subsidies for symphonies and musical programs.

Mr. Gruber, a delegate to the citizens of Greater Victoria, pointed out that financial assistance was granted to symphony orchestras by some governments in Europe.

"It has proved very successful," he said, "and has promoted musical activities."

Loggers' Wives Remember Chest
Among contributions reaching the Community Chest campaign office in Victoria today was one for $5 from the Ladies' Auxiliary to the International Woodworkers of America branch at Cay-cuse Logging Camp, Lake Cowichan.

The contribution was forwarded by Mrs. Leonard Heal, secretary of the auxiliary, to Mrs. A. I. Thomas, wife of the reeve of Esquimalt.

Scout Hall Site Sought In Oak Bay

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club is seeking a site in the municipality for construction of Boy Scout and Girl Guide hall.

A committee headed by Fred Norris has undertaken a search for a suitable piece of land.

The club is planning an auction to raise funds for service work. Collection of articles for the sale will start Nov. 5. The Kiwanians will call for articles from donors who phone G 4688.

Believe Woman Died 3 Days Ago

Believed to have been dead for about three days, the body of Mrs. L. S. Swanson, 66 years old, was discovered this morning in her suite at 1126 Richardson Street.

The body was found by Ernie Peden, her son-in-law, and E. Bowman. They called city police and Constables William Andrews and Alex Nichol and Detectives Angus Munro and Louis Callan attended.

It is likely Dr. E. C. Hart will hold an inquiry to determine cause and circumstances in the death.

Articles Stolen From Motorcycle

Motorcyclist Jack Millidge, 1322 Rockland Avenue, reported to city police that $40 worth of equipment was stolen from his bike while it was parked overnight in the entrance leading to the doorway of Bob Shank's shop on Fort Street. Stolen was the battery, lap robe, gloves, helmet and some tools.

Month's Heaviest Rainfall Driven By 50-Mile Gusts

Winds which reached as high as 50 miles an hour in gusts during the night whipped the heaviest rain of the month across Greater Victoria's heavy autumn darkness.

William Burton, superintendent of the Dominion meteorological observatory on Gonzales Heights, reported .76 inches of rain fell during the 24-hour period ending at 4 this morning, bringing the total rainfall so far this month to 2.68 inches, only .09 inches short of the 2.77-inch average for the whole month.

The wind, which tore a threatening fog into patches, reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour between 2 and 3 this morning, while gusts ranged between 44 and 50 miles an hour.

Because of the dirty night, tug operations were slowed down somewhat in this area's waters, but none of the vessels ran into difficulties. The C.P.R. night boat from Vancouver was a few minutes late in arriving, but other services, including Trans-Canada Air Lines, continued on schedule.

The rain, though heavy, is by no means the heaviest on record for a 24-hour period during the month of October, Mr. Burton reported.

Here are the years when considerably heavier October rains fell during a 24-hour period:

1875-1.11 inches; 1881-1.42 inches; 1884-1.1 inch; 1890-2.50 inches; 1893-1.12 inches; 1896-1.34 inches; 1898-1.05 inches; 1906-1.83 inches; 1910-1.35 inches; 1913-1.06 inches; 1921-1.23 inches; 1922-1.55 inches; 1927-1.68 inches; 1930-2 inches; 1945-1.54 inches, and 1947-1.67 inches.

Hospital Workers Urged To Refrain From Voting

The battle between the Royal Jubilee Hospital Employees' Association and the Labor Relations Board reached a new climax here today.

The board set up the machinery to take a government-supervised vote on the question of certification of the association, with the balloting fixed between 2 and 5, in the sun room on first south floor. The association circulated a notice urging the employees to refrain from voting.

The tangle dates back to last spring when the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada tried to organize the lay employees of the hospital. The Victoria Hospital Employees' Federal Union, Local 371, was organized and chartered by the T.L.C.

During this process the Royal Jubilee Hospital Employees' Association, a non-affiliated group, came into being. Last June the association applied to the Labor Relations Board for certification as bargaining agent for the lay employees at the hospital.

This was countered by a similar application by the union. The union's application was eventually withdrawn.

TWICE REJECTED

Twice the board rejected the application of the association on technical grounds. Finally the board decided that a supervised vote should be conducted among the employees to determine whether or not they wished to be represented by the association.

The association last Monday voted against acceptance of the board's ruling on the vote, claiming "ample evidence" has already been submitted to the board entitling the association to certification.

Following this resolution, the association circulated among the employees a notice which read: "Your executive is of the opinion that members of the association should be no party to the vote, and, accordingly, please do not attend the polls, and your executive will advise you of further developments in due course."

C. W. Burr, president of the association, said that the association had already supplied the Labor Relations Board with the signatures, attested under oath, of 227 of its members.

Corsair Sets Sail For Winter Service

Carrying a Canadian crew, the Pacific Cruise Line's luxury ship Corsair sailed from Victoria this afternoon for Los Angeles where she will begin her winter season service between that California port and Acapulco, Mexico.

The crew was signed on this morning following completion of negotiations for a new agreement with the Vancouver local of the Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.) with which the cruise line has had an agreement since the ship left Victoria Machinery Depot in 1947 following conversion.

The white-hulled and beautiful Corsair delighted the eyes of waterfront observers in the Inner Harbor this morning when she sailed up at one of the local oil company wharves.

Inquiry Labels English Music 'Mediocre'; Urges Revival Action

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

English musicians, still riding the crest of a postwar boom, have just had a bit of shock. They've been told—and by a reputable body—that their work is largely mediocre.

The Arts Inquiry, a body set up by a private trust to investigate the state of various arts in Britain, has just published its report on music. It was critical of almost everyone except the struggling composer and wound up by saying it was about time Britain had a national music policy.

Commented the Manchester Guardian editorially:

"It will quickly dismiss any self-satisfied smirks . . . nothing needed saying more than this."

Every branch of musical life was scrutinized and most found wanting—opera, the orchestra, chamber music in schools, professional training, concert talent.

Only the composer came out well.

The report said young English composers have too steep a hill to climb. "Composition is at a level unknown since the end of the 17th century," it said, "but composers find it discouragingly hard to get themselves a hearing."

Their works "have an unparalleled power of emptying a concert hall." Impresarios built concerts of "safe" works, daring only occasionally to include an unknown composition.

The result was that orchestra playing became hackwork and "it is not surprising that orchestra playing in London particularly, has never been more lifeless."

The report asked for greater support from public funds for symphonic and opera organizations and for professional teaching.

CULTURAL PRESTIGE

A special plea was made for successful establishment of the opera in Britain. "Our poverty here has caused cultural prestige of this country to suffer for long enough," the paper said.

The opera would offer scope for composers, singers, conductors, players, coaches, producers, designers, choreographers and librettists—in all of which departments England was insufficiently stocked to put on a first-rate performance by any standards.

The report criticized the Musicians' Union for preventing displaced persons from establishing in Britain despite the country's lack of first-rate musicians.

Urging a national policy on music, the report said:

"No better result could come of this survey than the starting of a full-scale inquiry into the employment status and training of music teachers in schools and in further education. . . . It would give a chance for local education authorities, music advisers, head teachers and those already teaching music to pool their ideas with the heads of music schools and university music departments.

"Out of such an inquiry must come a national policy and immediate action."

With the Future in mind..

You can almost hear him saying to himself: "Boy, if only I had the money."

How many times have you said that to yourself about things you want?

But it's well to realize that the one sure way to get what you want is to save for it. Canada Savings Bonds are an ideal way to go about it, because they make saving easy.

You can buy them in easy instalments as you go, through your Company's Payroll Savings Plan, or they can be bought from a bank or investment dealer.

You can cash them at their full face value at any time, at any bank, and as long as you hold them, they earn you interest.

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have bought, and are continuing to buy, Canada Savings Bonds. Make up your mind now to keep up this sound habit.

Atomic-Fission, Solar-Energy Scientists In Research Race

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
CHICAGO (NANA) — The climax may be near in the stirring race going on, in the physical-science laboratories, between atomic fission and so-called solar energy as to which will emerge first as "the power discovery of the ages."

This may seem surprising since the world is agog just now over Russia's apparent joining as a full-fledged entrant in the atomic power race, but not so to the scientists themselves, many of whom have forecast that atomic fission might finish second to a dark horse in the form of some other even more sensational source of power.

Solar energy, as it is called for want of a better word until its mysteries are further unfolded, has to do with tapping directly the tremendous power radiated upon the earth by the sun, and also practical application of knowledge being accumulated about the mysterious cosmic rays which bombard this planet.

Some of the nation's top atomic scientists are riding the solar energy nag in the race—including, here at the University of Chicago, none other than Dr. Enrico Fermi, who is credited by Dr. Arthur H. Compton, head of America's wartime atomic project, with being one of the three men most responsible for putting the United States ahead with the atom.

MORE SENSATIONAL
When a plaque was dedicated, marking the place under the football stands at Stagg Field, University of Chicago, where he set in operation the first atomic pile, Dr. Fermi astonished his listeners by predicting that, in the long pull, the atom was being pushed by an even more sensational development.

Fermi likes to "needle" his brilliant young atomic-science associates with this prediction, but as proof that it is no bluff he has just announced a revolutionary new theory about cosmic rays, that they originate among the stars, like our sun, and some may be 2,000,000,000 years old. The race between solar and atomic energy offers huge stakes. For instance, the physicists know that the tremendous energy packed into an atomic bomb is no more than the heat of the sunlight which falls on one and a half square miles of land in a single day.

No aspect of atomic energy, however startling, has impressed the scientists half so much as the potency of the cosmic rays which crash through two feet of lead—used in an attempt to create an "electrically sterile" chamber for atomic experimentation.

Harness them and we will have something, say the scientists with awe and determination.

That is what is behind all the work with clusters of balloons sent up with sensitized plates from the campuses of the University of Chicago, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and other research centres.

TEN REPEATERS
Ten presidents of the United States have been elected more than once: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, Cleveland, Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt.

IT'S GOING TO SHRINK
By the year 5362451, the 14,406-foot Mount Rainier will have shrunk to the size of a molehill, according to a scientist.

New Fire-Fighting Force At Shawnigan

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Plans have been completed for the reorganization of the Shawnigan Volunteer Fire Brigade.

At a public meeting here, P. G. Cudlip was elected president of the new organization; W. B. Broocke named vice-president, and A. R. Hawkins, secretary-treasurer.

E. G. Gibson has been appointed chief of the new volunteer force. L. Edgson is to be deputy and V. R. Dougan, maintenance mechanic.

Already some 35 district residents have offered their services as volunteer firemen.

SWIFT ANIMAL

The cheetah has been used for centuries in India and Persia for hunting antelope and other game, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. Over short distances, the cheetah probably can outrun any other animal.

Perjury Charge On Arson Investigation

ALBERNI — Louis Trembley has been charged with perjury by the Provincial Fire Marshal. He will be held in custody by B.C. Police pending posting of $3,000 bond in two sureties set by Magistrate Tom Patterson at Alberni. Trial was remanded for eight days.

The charge arose from evidence given by Trembley before a court of inquiry presided over by Fire Marshal Walker on Sept. 2 and Oct. 21 at Alberni investigating alleged arson on a house owned by Trembley at Alberni and insured for $21,000.

LARGEST PALACE

The Escorial, royal palace of the ex-king of Spain, in Madrid, is the largest palace in Europe. It is so large it requires four days to go through it.

DEATHS

ROOSE—At the Royal Jubilee Hospital, on Oct. 27, 1949, Arthur Roose, in his 71st year, of 1546 Sinclair Road, formerly of Montreal, Que. born in Derbyshire, Eng. He leaves his wife at home, and two brothers in England. Mr. Roose was with the Canadian National Railway as chief of tariff for years. He was Past

THE STORY: Mrs. Malone, a widow, has become the cook on a strange caravan bound for a mysterious destination. The caravan consists of a gigantic trailer pulled by a truck and driven by a uniformed chauffeur Rudy, and a smaller trailer pulled by a sedan which Victor, the Filipino who speaks like a college professor, drives. Everything is efficient and well planned, but already Mrs. Malone is beginning to wonder what kind of people she is working for. Her employer is Mrs. Everson, middle-aged, but still good-looking and who has the mannerisms of an actress. With her is a guest, the Marchese Delicasso, who speaks with a foreign accent. Even Rudy, the chauffeur, seems strangely familiar to Mrs. Malone. "You sure carry civilization with you," she tells Rudy. "That was the idea," he replies.

CHAPTER FIVE

RUDY REMOVED his cap and sat facing her. He wore a thin white sweatshirt under his apron; his powerful and hairy arms were bare; a strapped watch accentuated his lean wrist; his nails were short, well cared for, healthy.

He lifted his cup of steaming coffee with both hands and something in the gesture rang another bell in Mrs. Malone's memory. "Wait!" she cried aloud. "I'm remembering! A movie a long time ago..."

"You're getting warmer," Rudy interrupted harshly. "But what do you say we drop the subject?"

"That's fine with me. But I do want the truth about my boss. After all, I'd like to know where I'm going. And why. If there's anything crooked about this deal, I'd better know it. I've told you all about myself. Now just exactly who is this Mrs. Everson, and who's the foreign gentleman with the bracelet?"

And why this million dollar outfit?

Rudy and Victor exchanged a glance. The look might have meant anything.

"I can tell you the story," Rudy began. And then he hesitated.

"I'm all ears," Mrs. Malone said.

MARRIED RICH MISER

"You don't have to believe anything I tell you," Rudy continued. "I'll give it to you straight, and you can take it or leave it..."

He rubbed his head reflectively.

"To go back a ways: Mrs. Everson wasn't always rich. She started out as a waitress in Oklahoma and married a man much older than herself. I figure she had her eye on some oil leases he held. Anyway his wells came in."

"Lucky, wasn't she?"

Rudy shook his head.

"No. She wasn't. They moved west and built a little house on top of a hill near Los Angeles. Pappy was a millionaire, all right, but he turned out to be ignorant and jealous and tight as the dickens. She did all her own housework, made her own clothes, never went anywhere. But she stayed with it. Twenty years. I guess she figured he'd die first, and then she'd have her fling."

"That's what I call a smart woman," Mrs. Malone said. "If you like them smart. I don't."

"You've got to hand it to her. She was patient... and faithful. She never let on she was unhappy, and she kept herself young. Not so bad! Then the old man died off—that was three years ago—and left her his millions."

"It wasn't in the papers."

"No. She didn't want publicity. She was after position. A real place in the social sun. I know, because I was one of her first employees. I answered an ad in the paper, and here I am: driver, mechanic, bodyguard and father confessor to a rich dame."

Mrs. Malone inclined her head toward the Filipino.

"And Victor?"

"She stole Victor from a cocktail bar in Beverly Hills. The perfect houseboy. Unattached. Needs no sleep. Craves no personal satisfaction."

GRADUATED AT COLUMBIA

It was on the tip of her tongue to ask: "How come he talks like a professor?" But she checked herself. She must have made some sign, however, because Rudy smiled, a bit derisively she thought.

"I know what you're thinking," he said. "Tell the lady, Victor. You graduated from Columbia, didn't you?"

"Yes, I did," Victor said.

"That explains it, said Mrs. Malone. "But why do you work as a houseboy—surely you have enough education to do something more?"

"It is not bad work," explained Victor. "The pay is excellent."

"Some day, when he has collected his stake," Rudy continued, "he'll go back home. Meantime he doesn't care much what he does or where he goes..."

Mrs. Malone met his eyes squarely.

"It happens I do care. Where are we going?"

He hesitated a moment, stirring the coffee in his cup, creating a small vortex of bubbles.

"The story is," he said at last, "we're on our way to a place of safety."

"I don't get you," she said. "It's a long story," Rudy said. "Why don't you let it go at that? Everyone wants safety and security. Mrs. Everson thinks she knows where to find it."

"Safety from what?" Mrs. Malone asked.

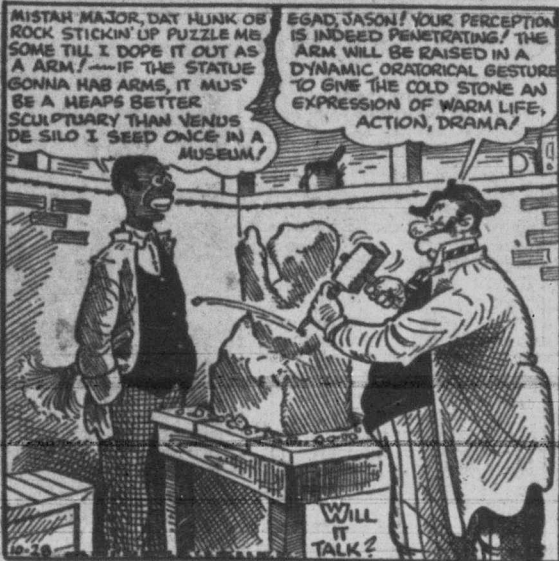

"It's not an easy thing to explain."

"You might try. I'm fairly intelligent."

Rudy sipped his coffee.

Young Russian D.P.'s Sing With Don Cossacks Tonight

There will be some new faces for Victoria theatregoers who are at the Royal Theatre tonight to hear the world-famous Don Cossacks male chorus sing their Russian songs.

And they will be young faces—for last summer five Russian D.P.'s, four singers and one dancer, came to the United States to join the group.

The additions to the 27-man chorus came from D.P. camps in Germany, and were selected from a number who were auditioned by Serge Jaroff, leader, and other members of the group when they toured western Europe for four months in 1945.

All the members of the great "organ of voices" except the newcomers, are now citizens of the United States. Most live in New York, and about 65 per cent of them are married.

Thursday they enjoyed their first day off in three weeks, seeing Victoria.

It is that way with their heavy schedule which will last 35 weeks—11 more than last year. On the current tour, the Don Cossacks will spend 17 weeks in Central America and will leave by boat March 4 for a tour of western Europe.

Their contract calls for two days off every five weeks.

Nearly all the men who will sing Russian religious, classical and folk songs, plus at least one American number, for Victorians tonight, have been with the chorus since Mr. Jaroff organized it in Russia in 1920.

The Don Cossacks first came to this continent in 1930. They now have no connections, except sentimental ties, with their former homeland. They no longer write letters to friends or relatives lest it cause trouble with the Russian authorities.

Oldest member of the group is 56, youngest 24. The latter is dancer John Kozak, who was born in Toronto of Russian parents.

The Don Cossacks seldom use any accompaniment by musical instruments.

Now on their 19th tour of the United States and Canada, most of the troupe considers the eight-month round-the-world trip in 1926 as the high point of the chorus' existence.

No Average Boy, Says School Head

There is no such thing as an average boy, John J. Timmis, headmaster of the University School, told the Optimist Club at a noon meeting Thursday. But there are hopes, ideals and desires common to all boys, he said.

"And if we do not satisfy the ideals and the hopes and the sublimated some of the desires," he maintained, "we will get juvenile delinquents."

Juvenile delinquency, in a great many cases, can be traced to collapse of religious training, lack of proper home life, evil examples and lack of discipline, Mr. Timmis said.

Boys do not resent discipline when it is fair, the speaker continued.

Dealing with certain modern theories of self-expression, Mr. Timmis told of having heard some educators advocating that boys between the ages of six and seven should all be equipped with hammers and saws so they could express themselves.

"Express themselves, baloney," the speaker declared. "They would express themselves on one another's heads."

C.C.F. Leader Concedes Coalition Will Be Returned In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba government got a nomination day bonus of 18 free seats Thursday and the chief Opposition spokesman conceded Premier Douglas Campbell's Coalition will be returned to office in the Nov. 10 general election.

"We haven't any alternative but to agree that they will be returned," said E. A. Hansford, leader of the C.C.F. official opposition in the last Legislature.

The Premier, six of his cabinet colleagues and seven other Coalition members were re-elected by acclamation. The Coalition Parties also were sure of four more seats in ridings where there will be a vote.

The Liberal-Progressive Party, which Mr. Campbell heads, got 11 of the acclamations and the Progressive Conservatives three.

Winnipeg South, a four-member constituency, will provide the Coalition with another seat since only three Opposition candidates are entered there. In addition, the contest in Killarney, Lansdowne and Hamiota involve only candidates supporting Coalition.

SETS RECORD

Political observers said the 18 seats assured on nomination day constitute a record for Manitoba. However, the 1941 general election produced a larger number of acclamations. Sixteen members were returned without opposition. There were seven acclamations in the last general election, in 1945.

Nomination papers were filed by 112 candidates, with 88 on the Coalition side, including the acclamations. Liberal-Progressives predominated with 44. Other Coalition candidates were: Progressive Conservatives 16, Independents 3, Independent Liberal-Progressive 1, Independent Liberal 1, Liberal 1.

The 46 candidates in opposition are: C.C.F. 25, Independent Liberal 5, Independent Progressive Conservative 4, Independent 3, Independent Liberal-Progressive 2, Conservative 2, Labor-Progressive 2, Independent C.C.F. 1, Northern Independent 1, Independent Labor 1.

With 14 acclamations and voting in the far north constituency of Rupert's Land deferred until Dec. 14, there will be Nov. 10 contests for 42 seats. It will be a straight two-way fight in 19 ridings, a three-way battle in nine.

Manitoba's next Legislature—the province's 23rd—will have 57 members, an increase of two brought about by redistribution. At dissolution Sept. 29 the Coalition had 36 supporters, the Opposition 16 and three seats were vacant.

Premier And Ex-Premiers At Laurier Club

Hospital Insurance Revenue $600,000 Short Of Estimate

B.C. Hospital Insurance Service collections this year will total $10,200,000 of the estimated $10,800,000 revenue, Premier Byron Johnson said here Thursday night, adding there was no cheaper insurance anywhere in the world than that provided by the service.

Addressing the Laurier Club in Terry's dining-room, the Premier disclosed for the first time an official estimate of the collections by the service. He said more than $10,000,000 had already been advanced to the hospitals, thus indicating the service would be short an estimated $2,000,000 for its first year of operation.

Rates have already been increased for 1950.

Mr. Johnson described hospital insurance as one of the contentious issues of the government's business but nevertheless said he, more than any other person, was responsible for putting the scheme into effect.

"If there is anything I am proud of it is the fact that the government had the courage to go ahead with hospital insurance at this time," he said.

He added that 145,500 persons to date had received benefits from the insurance scheme and that 450,000 had directly and indirectly felt the benefits from the service.

He noted also the scheme had ended the frequent requests of hospitals for aid.

Mr. Johnson's remarks about hospital insurance came during an address in which he outlined the government's policies to develop the resources of the province, and paid tribute to the work of present and past Liberal administrations in Ottawa and past Liberal administrations in Victoria.

Mr. Johnson mentioned what he described as the tremendous resources of the Peace River district, assuring the John Hart Highway to link Prince George and Dawson Creek would be completed in a year and a half and the extension of the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway to the Peace River district was inevitable; described the Hope-Princeton Highway, to be formally opened next Wednesday as one of the finest scenic routes on the continent; said the government would do everything possible to entice the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. to develop a huge hydro-electric project and aluminum reduction plant in British Columbia, and told how the projects proposed by this company, along with those already underway by other companies, including the B.C. Electric, were providing the opportunities necessary for the young men and women of British Columbia.

He said Canada had been blessed by outstanding national leadership by the Liberal Party, paying particular tribute to the work of Prime Minister St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister Pearson, Reconstruction Minister Winters and Fisheries Minister Mayhew.

Mr. Johnson was introduced by Harry P. Hodges, editor of the Victoria Daily Times, and thanked by Colin Martin,

Margaret Sullivan Makes Movie After Six-Year Absence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Margaret Sullivan can be classified as a hit-and-run interview.

A movie interviewer soon learns to class his subjects. There is the sit-and-chaw type, who remains in one spot as long as you want to ask questions. There is the hot-and-heavy variety, who pursues you until you can make a graceful exit. This one always wants to know: "Do you think you have enough for a story?"

With Maggie Sullivan, it's more hit-and-run, or touch-and-go.

The actress with the muted, foghorn voice is doing a film again after a six-year absence. She's playing in "No Sad Songs," her first since the wartime "Cry Havoc." After a wait while she changed her costume and make-up, she finally emerged from her dressing room. I began firing.

HIT AND RUN

"Hope your return will become a habit."

"That's very nice, but we'll wait and see."

She was charming, but she slowly retreated to her dressing-room door.

"Can I be the 99,000th person to ask you how your voice got that way?"

It worked. She drew forward. "Largely through misuse. My voice has never had much power, and I've always had to strain it to make myself heard when I play in big theatres."

"Does it hurt to do that?"

"Yes, my throat does get tired. I've had other actresses tell me they suffer to hear me on a stage because they know how much I'm straining my voice."

I could have gone on with a few more questions, but she was again retreating.

Stop Basement Leaks WITH BAPTITE

BAP-TITE is the positive, easy remedy for dampness or leakage through porous concrete or masonry surfaces.

Apply it like ordinary whitewash—the flow-like particles penetrate the surface, then expand to form perfect sealing from moisture.

Basement walls treated with Bap-tite become snowy white to remain bright and free from all water stains.

BAP-TITE can be easily and successfully applied to concrete, stucco, cement block or tile and brick surfaces that have never been painted before.

Press For Coast Guard Service

Humiliating To Rely On U.S. Aid Commons Informed

OTTAWA (CP)—Members from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts urged in the Commons that the government establish a Canadian Coast Guard service.

G. F. Higgins (P.C.-St. John's East) said it is "humiliating to Canadians" to have to rely on the United States Coast Guard for life-saving services along the coasts.

"This is a matter that broaches the dignity of this nation," he told the Commons as it resumed consideration of 1949-50 estimates for the Department of Transport.

Mr. Higgins listed some of the functions of the U.S. coast guard. It provides air-sea rescue service, direction-finding stations, operated patrol cutters, kept records of ships at sea to facilitate rescue work, maintained light houses and radio directional aids.

J. L. Gibson, Independent member for the Pacific coast constituency of Comox-Alberni, suggested Mr. Higgins put his speech on the Coast Guard in moth balls. He would be able to use it next year because from past experience it would be just as pertinent at that time.

Defence Responsibility

Mr. Gibson said the Coast Guard service should not be the responsibility of the Department of Transport. It should be under the Department of National Defence.

He recalled that the navy provided two vessels last year which, he said, might have been used as coastal cutters on the west coast. However, when these ships got up to winter harbor they had been told to do nothing except watch for Japanese mines and destroy them. They carried out their orders, Mr. Gibson said.

Maj.-Gen. C. R. Pearkes, V.C., Progressive Conservative member for the Vancouver Island constituency of Nanaimo, said that if the cost of setting up a fulltime Coast Guard service is too high, then the present life-saving services should at least be co-ordinated.

Transport Minister Chevrier said that an interdepartmental committee has been established to see what can be done to improve life-saving services on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and the Great Lakes.

He said he wondered if some of the members realized the problem of providing such services for Canada. The size of the country made it difficult to patrol both the coasts and the Great Lakes as well.

Rockslide Cuts Communication Service In B.C.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Telephone, teletype and telegraph communications were disrupted today by a morning rockslide at Coquitlam in the Kettle Valley, which buried 75 feet of track and held up train schedules.

A C.P.R. spokesman said the slide buried 75 feet of track to a depth of 30 feet at Coquitlam. The scene is about 30 miles from Hope.

He said work crews expected to have the slide cleared up by 7 tonight.

The C.P.R.'s No. 11 westbound train out of Medicine Hat was expected to reach Vancouver this evening. It was due to arrive in Vancouver at 11:40 a.m. today.

The B.C. Columbia Telephone Company reported two-hour delays on phone calls to eastern Canada.

Former B.C. Woman Given U.S. Medal For Heroic Act

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Lieut. Mary Patricia O'Hara, 30, today holds the nation's major peace-time award for heroism—the Soldier's Medal.

In a full-dress presentation Thursday she became the first member of the women of the U.S. Air Force to receive the medal.

Lieut. O'Hara was awarded the decoration for saving the life of Katherine Boeing, 21, Galveston, last July. Her citation said in part:

"With complete disregard for her own safety, Lieut. O'Hara dove into the treacherous Gulf waters off Fort Crockett, Texas, and with considerable difficulty succeeded in bringing the young woman safely to shore."

Lieut. O'Hara is the daughter of Mrs. V. C. O'Hara, Vancouver, B.C., and former swimming champion at the University of Washington.

Claims Record Grizzly

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—A grizzly bear shot recently near here by J. M. Moorman of Pasadena, Calif., is believed to have had the largest skull measurements of any grizzly ever found on the North American continent. The skull measured 8 1/2 by 15 1/2 inches. Previous record was 8 1/2 by 15 1/2 inches.

Edmonton To Have New $3,000,000 Ordnance Depot

EDMONTON (BUP)—Edmonton will be the site of a $3,000,000 ordnance depot of the Department of National Defence.

Several possible sites have been surveyed, and B. C. Campbell, assistant deputy defence minister, said in Edmonton today that they will be submitted to Ottawa authorities for final selection.

He made the announcement after a conference with municipal and provincial government authorities.

The sites are in the northern section of the city and just outside the northern boundaries.

Piggy-Back Snare New Football Play

TORONTO (CP)—So you thought football referees had their troubles? Here's a new one—players riding piggy-back to snare forward passes.

The play, devised by Dick Henderson, coach of St. Andrew's College lower school team, works like this: A wingback and an end race down the field, and the backfielder jumps on the end's shoulders in time to catch the pass.

"There is nothing in the rule book which prevents a player from mounting a teammate's back to catch a pass," said W. C. Foulds, chairman of the Canadian Rugby Union's rules committee. "It is unusual but I can't see where there is anything illegal about it."

Henderson said he used his piggy-back play successfully as his team defeated Duke of York 21 to 5 in an exhibition game.

LaMotta Mourns Death Of Cerdan

NEW YORK (AP)—Jake LaMotta, who was to have defended his world middleweight boxing title against Marcel Cerdan Dec. 2, said today "you had to fight him as I did to know what a fine sportsman he was."

Cerdan was killed Thursday night in the crash of an Air France plane in the Azores. He was en route to New York for the bout.

"My mother has been at church all morning, praying and lighting candles for the safety of our friend," LaMotta said. "If I had lost to Marcel in Detroit, I might have been flying to France to fight him there..."

Victoria Daily Times Changes Hands

No Change In Times Policies

Sale of the Victoria Daily Times to Max Bell of Calgary and his associates was announced today by Mrs. J. W. Spencer, member of the family which has controlled the city's evening publication since 1920.

Amount of the sum involved was not disclosed.

Mr. Bell is president of a holding company which will control the Victoria Times, the Calgary Albertan and the Edmonton Bulletin.

Final arrangements for the sale of the Times were completed this morning. F. E. Winslow, Victoria, and E. B. Bull, Vancouver, represented Mrs. Spencer, widow of J. W. Spencer, long-time managing director of the newspaper.

Commenting on the purchase, Mr. Bell, 37-year-old Regina-born businessman, said: "We shall continue the traditional policies of the Times, at all times striving to obtain and publish 'all the news that's fit to print.'"

"We are not unmindful of the morning contemporary, its history and enviable record, and with it and the Times we feel Victoria will be given the type of 24-hour newspaper service to which it is justly entitled."

Red Cross Negotiates

GENEVA (AP)—The Polish government ordered the International Committee of the Red Cross to close its offices in Warsaw two weeks ago, a spokesman for the Red Cross said today, but negotiations to keep them open still are in progress.

C. A. Thomas, C.C.F. Vice-President Dies

KAMLOOPS (CP)—C. A. (Chuck) Thomas, first vice-president of British Columbia's C.C.F. Party died in hospital today. He had been a patient practically ever since the provincial election last June when he was defeated in the Kamloops riding by Syd J. Smith, Coalitionist.

Funeral services will be held in Kamloops United Church at 2 p.m. Monday.

Israel State Gets Further Bank Loan

WASHINGTON (BUP)—The Export Import Bank has granted Israel a $20,000,000 credit to finance industrial projects.

It brought to $75,000,000 total grants so far to the new Jewish state. The new loan bears interest at 3 1/2 percent over a 15-year amortization period.

Albertan May Go To Empire Games

CALGARY (CP)—The Calgary Albertan said today in a sport page story that George Sutherland, famous De Winton, Alta., athlete, has been named to Canada's British Empire Games team.

Sutherland, who has been a member of three other Canadian teams to the Empire Games, missed selection this year at the Toronto trials when he was beaten in the 16-pound hammer throw by Sven Sigridsen of Winnipeg.

The story says Sutherland will make the trip to New Zealand with the 16-man Canadian team if Albertans can raise $1,200 to cover his expenses.

"It was understood Thursday that the Alberta branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada would immediately start a drive to raise the necessary funds," the story said.

Toronto Stadium To Be Enlarged

TORONTO (CP)—Capacity of Varsity Stadium will be enlarged to 23,500 for next season, and there is a possibility enough work may be done to permit accommodation of 30,000 spectators, Warren Stevens, University of Toronto athletic director, said today.

Authority has been obtained from the board of governors for work to increase the capacity from its present 18,500.

Greentree Colt Trims Calumet Star In Special

BALTIMORE (AP)—Capot did it again to Coaltown today beating the Calumet star easily for the second straight time in the Pimlico special.

The time was 1:56 4/5.

The three-year-old Greentree colt literally ran away from his year-old rival to win by about 12 lengths. The time for the 13/16 miles was four-fifths of a second slower than the track record Capot set in the Preakness here last spring.

Drawing the inside post position, Capot, under the urging of Toronto-born jockey Ted Atkinson, jumped into the lead at the start and never looked back, widening his margin at every pole. At no stage of the race was Atkinson called upon to use his whip.

The crowd had established Coaltown entry as a two-to-five favorite.

His win strengthens Capot's claim to honors as horse of the year although a victory over Ponder, another three-year-old in the forthcoming Jockey Gold Cup would establish it beyond doubt.

Weather Forecast

Sunny today and Saturday; cooler tonight. Southwest winds, 35 m.p.h. today, decreasing to 20 Saturday. Low tonight, 45; high Saturday, 55.

No Coast Entries For Athletic Award To Male Track Star

MONTREAL (CP)—Tom Lord, chairman of the national track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, today announced that nominations for the annual John W. Davies Trophy will close Oct. 30 and urged all branches to forward the names of their nominees immediately.

The trophy is considered most outstanding in track and field in Canada. The national track and field committee will judge the nominations.

Lord said nominations have been slow coming in and that none had been received from the west coast. Last year the trophy was awarded jointly to Jack Hutchison of Vancouver and Jack Parry of London, Ont.

Undefeated Badgers To Play U.B.C. Squad

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Paced by left halfback Stan Russell, an honorable mention on the Little All-America team last season, the undefeated Pacific University Badgers were expected to put a crimp in the University of British Columbia's homecoming festivities over the week-end.

Unbeaten in five starts this season, the Badgers of the Pacific Northwest Conference, meet the Thunderbirds at U.B.C. Stadium Saturday afternoon.

FOUR STAR FINAL

Bill Corum Gets Churchill Downs President's Job

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Bill Corum, New York sports columnist and radio sports broadcaster, was chosen today as president of the American Turf Association and Churchill Downs.

This is the job Col. Matt J. Winn filled for so many years before his death Oct. 6. One of Corum's duties will be the planning and supervision of the Kentucky Derby.

His choice as Col. Winn's successor had been predicted for several days by turf writers here and elsewhere.

Corum has been several days ago and was reported to have conferred with members of the board of directors of the Turf Association and of Churchill Downs. The association controls the downs.

The official announcement was made following a joint meeting of the two boards.

Corum has been a close follower of the turf and of the Kentucky Derby for many years. He has covered most of the derbies since 1924. Corum and Col. Winn were close friends.

Seattle Hockey Club Seeks New Players

SEATTLE (BUP)—Seattle hockey mogul Frank Dotten was en route to central Canada today to pick up some additions for his Pacific Coast Hockey League club.

Dotten released third string centre Russ Kopak when the ex-Easton Olympic's player failed to live up to expectations. Kopak's loss left the Seattle roster at 13 players.
